

Word Is Heard From One Plane Hawaiian Flight

Naval Officials Are Confident All Is Well Despite Failure For Several Hours to Get Message

FLAGPLANE SAFELY WINGING ON COURSE

Planes Took Off Auspiciously From Pablo Bay Shortly Before 3 O'Clock Monday Afternoon.

San Francisco, August 31.—(AP)—The naval seaplane PN-9, No. 1, was making satisfactory progress toward Hawaii at 11:15 o'clock tonight, but the other plane engaged in the flight, the PN-9, No. 3, had not been heard from for several hours.

At 6:16 p. m., the destroyer William Jones, the first guardship stationed 200 nautical miles from San Francisco, radioed that both planes had passed over. Since then, the PN-9, No. 1, the flagplane, has been in frequent communication with shore stations. There has been no further word of the other plane.

Band Admiral Moffett, chief of the naval aeronautical bureau and Captain Stanford E. Moss, flight project commander, in constant touch with the situation, expressed no concern for the safety of the PN-9, No. 3, and yet instructed the first two guardships, the William Jones and the McCawley, to look for her.

The flagplane was approaching the destroyer Corry, 600 knots out, at 11:30. Her messages reported that everything was going well.

San Francisco, August 31.—The first few hours of the navy's Hawaiian flight have passed without mishap, and the two seaplanes, which took off from San Francisco on an attempted non-stop cruise to Honolulu, have been successful over the first stages of their journey.

They were flying about 700 feet above the sea and about 10 miles apart. Only the destroyers, pitching upon the rolling ocean at 200 mile intervals along the course, their searchlights flashing into the heavens, furnished companionship for the men who had braved the wastes of the Pacific in attempting an epochal feat.

Departed About 3 O'Clock.

Representing the most efficient aeronautical development the United States navy has been able to obtain, the planes rose from the waters of San Pablo Bay Monday without an accident. The PN-9, No. 3, climbed into the air at 2:45 p. m., and 15 minutes later, the PN-9, No. 1, flagship of the expedition, followed her aloft.

An hour before the bluffs and points of mountains along the San Francisco coast had begun to fill with spectators. Eyes were trained on the low brown promontory of Midshipman's Point, awaiting the PN-9, No. 1, as it came from the main body of the harbor.

Good Weather Promised.

Escort planes whirled overhead ready to accompany the Hawaiian adventures for the first few miles of the journey. Overcast skies, which earlier in the day had threatened to hamper the flight, gradually cleared, and as time for the hop-off approached, a blue sky flecked with lazy white clouds, gave promise of excellent weather conditions.

Tong Feudists Promise Peace At Conference

Hip Sings and Leongs Formally Bury the Hatchet.

New York, August 31.—(AP)—Permanent peace between the Hip Sing and the On Leong Tong, who recently revived their deadly warfare, was promised today by leaders of the opposing gangs in conference with District Attorney Banton.

A general call to the leaders of the tong throughout the United States to meet in New York as soon as possible to ratify a new treaty was sent out at the close of the conference.

Mr. Banton and the leading Chinamen with whom he met agreed that the existing treaty was inadequately drawn to meet all contingencies and new treaty to cover all possible developments will be presented soon. Meanwhile the tong leaders agreed to order a truce and to warn their members that it must be strictly obeyed.

6-YEAR-OLD BOY SWIMS HUDSON IN 37 MINUTES

New York, August 31.—(AP)—John Levine, Jr., 6-year-old swimmer of Philadelphia, swam the Hudson river today in 37 minutes. The boy dove at the 12th Street ferry from the New York shore and swam to the Jersey shore, a distance of about 1 1/2 miles.

Plennie Miner, Nemesis Of Criminals, Is Dead

END RECALLS NOTED MURDER CASES

Plennie Miner, 52, special investigator for more than eight years in the office of the solicitor general of Fulton county and one of the most widely-known county officials throughout this section, died Monday afternoon at the residence, 656 South Boulevard, after a brief illness.

Back of this announcement—couched in stereotyped newspaper parlance—lies a story that the average business man, unversed in the romance of criminology and uninitiated in the secrets of the little back room of the solicitor of Fulton county's tribunals of justice, may find it hard to appreciate.

For Plennie Miner was not of the every-day, run-of-the-mine type of humans who are born, live and die.

Loved by all who knew him and could face him without flinching under his calm and friendly gaze, Plennie Miner meant death and despair to hundreds of others.

He represented the noose and the chair and prison bars to men who violated the sixth commandment, and he stood for bitter expiation for others who broke lesser man-made statutes.

For eight years, he played the role of Nemesis to Atlanta's underworld as well as to those of the upper strata of society whose feet left the paths they should tread—and he played it with inexorable exactness.

His ruddy face, his ready smile, his friendly grey eyes, would have made it impossible for Plennie Miner to act the gumbush sleuth—a fact that caused him small discomfort. So he donned a flaming red tie as a usual thing; possibly to depart still further from a type that was odious to him, and he played his game fairly and squarely, with no quarter asked and none given.

For the past eight years, representatives of justice have sounded thrilling appeals for conviction of the major criminals of Atlanta, and in each case Plennie Miner had carefully provided them with their verbal thunderbolts. Unseen, his hand guided the course of the law, and, unfelt, his

2 LITTLE GIRLS DROWN IN POOL NEAR CHAMBLEE

Mary Brooks, 11, and Hattie Lusk, 10, Are Dead When Bodies Are Recovered.

CLOTHING FOUND AT WATER'S EDGE

Two Girls Were Accused to Going to Pool To Bathe—Funeral Arrangements Not Made.

A swim in an artificial lake near the home of Frank Brooks two and a half miles from Chamblee Monday afternoon caused the death of two small girls.

The victims are: Mary Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brooks, and Hattie Lusk, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lusk.

The girls had gone to the pool to go in bathing shortly after noon. They were not missed until about 2 o'clock and some boys were sent to find them.

Clothing Is Found.

After a search they came back to the Brooks home and reported that the girls could not be found. Members of the family then went to the lake and found the clothing which had been left near the water's edge.

The bodies were soon recovered. First aid methods were given but were futile. Dr. C. M. Adams, of Atlanta, was called and pronounced the two victims dead.

The water where the girls went down was about five or six feet deep.

Bodies Are Found.

The bodies were only a short distance apart when found. The girls had been in the habit of going to the lake in the afternoon to go in bathing. It was not until they had been away from the house for an unusually long time that members of the families became alarmed.

The two bodies were taken to the Brooks home. Funeral arrangements had not been made late Monday night.

TARDINESS OF U. S. IN AIDING LEAGUE SCORED BY FOSTER

Vancouver, B. C., August 31.—(AP) Sir George Foster, former vice president of the league of leagues assembly, believes that the Americans, by their "tardiness" with regard to participation in the league have made more difficult to bring about compulsory settlement of differences between nations either by arbitration or through the permanent court of international justice.

In an address explaining the aims and accomplishments of the league before an audience here, the veteran Canadian statesman said: "Had the mighty force of the United States been with us in the last few months I believe that today compulsory arbitration of international disputes would be an accomplished fact and the menace of war removed from civilized nations."

The league no longer is weak, he said, but has developed great power and influence.

NEW PROHIBITION MACHINERY GOES IN EFFECT TODAY

Assistant Secretary Andrews Confident That Increasing Success Will Crown Efforts.

Washington, August 31.—(AP)—The treasury's new prohibition enforcement machine, built and guided by Assistant Secretary Andrews, was ready tonight to take over the work tomorrow of carrying out the nation's dry laws.

While the machine has many temporary parts and Mr. Andrews frankly says that some of them are weak, he expressed confidence today that increasing success would crown the efforts he said he felt satisfied at intended on stay on the job "so long as it is possible for me to accomplish anything," thus setting at rest rumors that he might retire.

Fill All Posts Soon.

It is the assistant secretary's hope that he may fill permanently the posts held by temporary officials at an early date, but at any rate the charges will come one by one as men suited to the work they must do are found. As for the weak members of the enforcement corps, Mr. Andrews declared that their shortcomings would be discovered quickly and they would be replaced as conditions required.

As the reorganized enforcement arm goes into action tomorrow, there will be a shortage of personnel at many points, but Mr. Andrews said his latest advice indicated that the recently named administrators were making progress in selecting subordinates.

ELIMINATION OF SUPPLY IS ANDREWS' OBJECTIVE.

Chicago, August 31.—(AP)—The new national prohibition enforcement unit, which is scheduled to begin functioning in most sections tomorrow, will direct its energies toward elimination of the illicit trade in alcoholic beverages by depriving traffickers of their supply and eliminating the market.

Lincoln C. Andrews, in charge of the reorganized enforcement unit, in a letter today to R. E. Ewing, acting director of the Chicago district, defined the elimination of the "outlaw business" as "the main objective for the federal forces."

Bees driving directly at the principal sources of supply and running to cover all distributive agencies, the district chiefs are advised to lend every effort to the active coordination of their forces with those of local enforcement agencies and of other federal units whose jurisdiction brings them into contact with the prohibition squads. Mr. Andrews advised especially close co-operation with the department of justice, the immigration offices and the coast guard.

The program of the reorganized organization was thus set forth: "Sources of supply to be reached and wiped out as rapidly as possible are: (1) Production, (2) Distribution, (3) Transportation. The various agencies of the government are being organized to make it possible to accomplish each of these steps."

"The market is our most difficult target. The commissioner said that if 'I am asked to resign because I have seen fit to exercise the power expressly conferred upon me by congress in urging the removal of an inefficient agent of the board, then I submit that the control of the operation and disposition of the merchant fleet is taken from this bipartisan and sectionally constituted body and placed in the hands of one man, for whose actions the board is responsible.'"

Recalls Act of Congress.

Haney recalled the act of congress creating the board in denying the president's right in this case to remove him.

"The board," he said, "when once appointed by the president in conformity with the statute, is an independent agency of the United States government and is vested by the statute with large and important discretionary powers, which the members thereof are compelled to exercise independently of any other governmental agency, so long as the law is in force, and, with the exception of the power of removal for causes specified in the act, the members of the board are responsible only to the legislative body."

Public To See Record Today On Income Tax

Internal Revenue Collectors Ordered To Throw Open Books at 9 O'Clock.

Washington, August 31.—(AP)—The people of the United States will have their second opportunity tomorrow to see how paid income taxes for 1924 and how much each paid.

At 9 a. m. local time, internal revenue collectors in all districts will open the income tax records for public inspection, and for the first time newspapers may publish them without fear of moves against them by federal authorities.

Commissioner Blair, of the internal revenue bureau, has sent instructions to all collectors as follows: "The lists will be open for public inspection at all times during each working day for 30 days, beginning September 1. Thereafter, the hours they shall be open for public inspection may be regulated by each collector of internal revenue, with a view to preventing undue interference with the official work of the office. However, following this 30-day period, they must be open for public inspection at least three days a week, and during such days they shall be available to the public at least three hours a day. The days and hours will be selected by each collector and due publicity to their regulations will be given by the collectors."

When the treasury announced a year ago that the lists could be examined by the public, it issued a warning that one provision of the federal tax law apparently prohibited publication of the names and amounts in the newspapers. Much uncertainty resulted, and tests suits were brought to the supreme court, which construed the statute to mean that publication was permitted.

With an increase of business of about 40 per cent this year over the previous year's reports, G. E. Wood, chief operator for the local Western Union, announced Monday that 25 operators have been added to relieve the congested conditions.

Mr. Wood declared that he expects further increases in the business during the coming months. "We have had a steady gain all during the year," he said.

"Instead of the usual 'valley' in the summer months our business has steadily increased. I am expecting our business during the winter months to show considerable increase."

"I can only account for this, by the better business conditions in and near Atlanta. Tonight, we are battling for the business during the winter months by a comparatively new crowd of amateurs. Some of the standbys of the 25 operators, who began their duties September 1, 20, are girls. Most of them come from the middle-west. This is due to the ending of the wheat season and a slackening of trade there. Some of the operators are from New Orleans, La., and Brownsville, Texas."

Mr. Wood said that the average number of telegrams handled by the local office daily is 90,000. This is a high mark for the past two years.

VETERANS' ROOMS RAIDED BY AGENTS IN BOOZE SEARCH

Delegates Placated After 17 That Were Arrested Are Released and Apology Is Made.

Tulsa, Okla., August 31.—(AP)—Conciliatory tactics employed tonight by leaders of the Veterans of Foreign Wars prevented a number of delegates from leaving the convention after their rooms at the Mayo hotel had been raided by a force of federal prohibition officers, under the direction of Henry Beard, United States marshal.

The veterans were placated after R. N. Maxey, commander of the Oklahoma department, P. J. Hurley and other national officers had filed protests against the actions of the raiders. Officers were ordered to release all veterans who were detained, and it was explained that the raid was not directed at them.

Louis Kratzner, who said he was a traveling salesman from Detroit, was the only man held. Officers said they found two quarts of liquor in his room.

The raiders served the hotel management with a blanket warrant and officers were placed in charge of the hotel telephone board, the clerks desk and each elevator. Deputy marshals and prohibition agents rode the elevators throughout the raid.

Five grip containing liquor were seized and 15 men, 17 of whom were delegates, were arrested and taken to the marshal's office.

Veteran officials immediately protested and the delegates were released, and their personal effects, with the exception of the liquor, were returned.

The arrest of these boys was a mistake, W. L. Coffey, assistant district attorney, told the organization officers. "We were not after the veterans, and not now after them. We went over there for the purpose of arresting certain bootleggers, who, according to our information, are staying in the hotel and playing profitable trade."

Captain Henry G. Lawson, of Boston, national adjutant general of the organization, was a leader in the protests against the federal officers' action. Lawson's room was raided and his grips, dresser and other personal belongings were searched. "It's an outrage," Lawson declared. "We are not bootleggers."

One of the raiders searched the room of General John H. Dunn, of Boston, national commander, while the general and Mrs. Dunn were

JONES AND GUNN AMONG OAKMONT LEADERS AT GOLF

Bobby Shoots First Eighteen in 73, But Card Is Bettered by Roland MacKenzie's 71.

BY GEORGE CONGDON. Sporting Editor, Constitution.

Oakmont Country Club, Pittsburg, Penn., August 31.—(Special)—Bob Jones, of Atlanta, is defending champion in the national amateur golf championship that began its long course today over the Oakmont course.

Mr. Jones, who shot a 73, one over par, nor MacKenzie, the low shooter of the first 18, was the subject of conversation tonight. When the hall of divots had cleared, Watts Gunn, understudy of Bob Jones, with his 76, was on the boards for dissection—that is, dissection of his game. Watts Gunn has taken the national field at Oakmont by storm. At 20 he is the sensation that Bob Jones was only a few years ago when the present champion was using golf sticks instead of stiffs for play things, and making the old heads of the game eat his dust.

Watts Gunn's remarkable card, with a par 37 going out and par on the first 10 holes, gave Atlanta two scintillating hopes for the second day of qualifying play that decides the 16 elect golfers who will go to the tee for the starter's word in match play Wednesday.

The other, of course, is Bob, Gene Cook, state champion of Georgia, and from Atlanta, who made a brilliant start, but slipped into an 85 at the end of the 18 holes.

"I was all wrong," Gunn said. "I took three putts on about every green and couldn't keep out of trouble."

The 1925 championship, from indications following this 30-day period, they must be open for public inspection at least three days a week, and during such days they shall be available to the public at least three hours a day. The days and hours will be selected by each collector and due publicity to their regulations will be given by the collectors."

Remus Scoffs At Reported Suit of Wife

Prisoner Reported To Have Quarreled With Mate on Visit Here.

BY HERMAN D. HANCOCK.

George Remus, Cincinnati bootleg king, now confined in the Atlanta federal prison, Monday night laughed at reports that Mrs. Imogene Remus, his wife, who has stuck by him through a maze of court fights and a two-year prison term, had sued him for divorce. He will complete his term here Wednesday.

Warden John W. Snook and Superintendent of Prisons Luther C. White declined to allow Remus to be interviewed, but it was reported at the pen that Remus had given the reports "the laugh," saying he would not believe it until he was served with the papers.

As the arms of the law prepared to tighten again around him, the prisoner was engaged in writing statements to hand to newspaper men when he was released from the Atlanta pen at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Prepares for Interviews.

"I might as well get a few words ready for the boys. They will be wanting it Wednesday," Remus said as he began to pen his note to his "friends of the press."

"Happy? Of course, I'm happy—who would not be with a reunion with his family whom he has scarcely seen for two years so near at hand?" Remus wrote as he laughed at "old man Trouble." That's how the interview was preparing began.

But by Wednesday Cincinnati announced that Remus was well and recovering. He has a wife and one child.

Bank of Mexico Will Open Today

Paper Money, First Since 1920, Will Be Issued, Backed by Gold and Silver Reserves.

Mexico City, August 31.—(AP)—The Banco de Mexico, the new Mexican National bank of issue, will come officially into existence tomorrow. Arrangements were completed today for formal filling of the charter.

The bank will issue paper money, backed by both gold and silver reserves, although the new notes actually will be gold certificates. The government will retain 51 per cent of the stock, offering the remainder for general subscription. The bank is capitalized at 100,000,000 pesos (normally $40,000,000).

Mexico has had no paper money in general circulation since 1920, and little since 1914. Only gold and silver coins have been used and the handicap of handling big business transactions by payments in metal coin have curtailed trade, experts say.

In addition to issuing paper money, the bank will assume the functions of the present Mexican monetary commission. It is authorized to handle re-discounts and act as a general banking business as well as agent for the Mexican treasury.

A criticism of the new bank plan, which is heard here, is that the money which the government is using to start this bank issue could have been used to pay obligations under the Lamon-Huerta agreement, whereby Mexico was to make certain payments to foreign holders of Mexican bonds. There is now due a payment of 35,000,000 pesos under this agreement, and the debt of 1925, another 40,000,000 pesos, or a total of 75,000,000 pesos will be due.

NEW PEACE PLAN TO BE DISCUSSED

BY ERIC KEYSER.
Berlin, August 31. — European statesmen plan to gather around a secret council table in the latter part of September to build the foundation upon which it is hoped to erect a peace agreement which actually will keep the peace. The United States may send an observer to the conference.

Foreign Minister Stresemann today told the United News of the projected international discussions. The scene is to be in Switzerland, possibly in lovely Lusane, about September 23. Like many others before it, this conference is to be convened in secrecy, and the delegations will promise each other not to expand on the non-committal communications which will be given out each day to the press. And, like the others, there probably will be first one leak and then another, each delegation asserting the necessity of elaborating on the communiqué because some other delegation already has broken confidence. Such things have happened every time Europe's statesmen have gotten together to negotiate their troubles in secret.

Which states will participate in the conference and the scope of the agenda depend partly on the ambassadorial negotiations now in progress regarding the proposed European security pact and partly on the progress the international legal experts may be able to report after their conference, on the same subject, near London, which begins Monday. The experts will represent Belgium, France, Great Britain and Italy, but the proposed conference in Switzerland probably will have more participants. Italy, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Germany, France, Belgium and Great Britain probably will sit in on the Swiss council.

London was first announced as the scene of the legal parley, but it is learned that the experts will meet outside the city for the purpose of avoiding disturbing intrusions. If Monday's conference proves to be the beginning of a fruitful discussion, the international gathering in Switzerland will attempt to conclude the peace pact and attached treaties whereby Europe is to be made safe. There must be treaties arranged between Germany and Poland and between Germany and Czechoslovakia. France heads a European hegemony which includes those two states, and is desirous with them that Germany be bound by treaty to refrain from endeavoring to encroach upon the borders of either. Then there is the question of the Rhine zone, and its continued demilitarization, and what shall be recognized as aggression.

The proposed security treaties are to take the place of the League of Nations security, disarmament and arbitration protocol which was torpedoed by the British in Rome last year.

SEAPLANES SAFELY
The crowds gave notice that the planes were in sight. There was an eager bustle and murmuring from the crowds below. Low over Midshipman's Point, headed toward San Francisco, came the two Hawaiian planes and their three escort planes.

Barely Clear Land.
They were flying so low that they barely cleared the narrow strip of land. Once again over the water, they wheeled toward the sea. They still were so low that the grim pile of buildings on Alcatraz island, the army prison, hid them from view as they passed them.

Harbor craft set up a shrill acclaim of whistles as the planes gathered speed in their rush seaward. The great machines gained altitude steadily. The yellow low of the PN-9 No. 1, flashed out in front as the formation passed between the towering headlands that form the Golden Gate. With a steadily decreasing drone of motors, the planes headed toward the mist that clouded the horizon. Ahead of them lay 2,100 nautical miles of ocean, separating them from the end of their journey.

1,287 Gallons of Gasoline.
The PN-9, No. 1, piloted by Commander John Rodgers, flight commander, and a crew of three, which included a navigation officer, mechanic and radio man, is equipped with the 500-horsepower Packard motors. She can carry a weight of 24,000 pounds, and at the start was loaded with 1,287 gallons of gasoline, just enough for the journey.

Lieut. Allen P. Snoddy was in command of the PN-9, No. 3, equipped like the No. 1, with engines capable of developing 1,000 horsepower. She had a crew of five men at the take off. Just before the two planes started for Hawaii, where they expect to arrive at about 3 p. m. Tuesday, the PN-1, Boeing plane, which was delayed by necessary repairs from starting with the other ships, flew over the bay in a practice spin. The machine, with Lieutenant Commander J. R. Strong as pilot, will follow the two PN-9s as soon as navy officials are convinced she is ready for the test.

Fly at 1,000 Feet.
The planes evidently did not attempt to gain altitude rapidly at the start. They were expected at no time during the flight to get higher than 1,000 feet, chosen as the most suitable altitude for a cruising speed of about 90 miles an hour. This speed was to be increased as the plane's load was diminished by consumption of fuel.

At 200-mile intervals 11 navy vessels were stationed to guard the line of flight. The destroyers William Jones was the nearest to San Francisco, 200 miles at sea. Next in order were the destroyers McCawley, Corry, Meyer, Doyen, the airplane carrier Langley, Reno, Farragut, the plane tender Aroostook, the Tanager, and the Whippoorwill, the last only 30 miles from the island of Oahu.

Smoke from the destroyers during the daylight hours and searchlights at night were counted on to supplement radio communication in guiding the planes.

Must Remain in Seats.
The plane commanders and their relief pilots were seated in the cockpit until the flight had ended, successfully or in failure. Writing pads were strapped on each man's knee, and tiny bulbs, fed by electric batteries carried in the men's jumpers, furnished illumination by which they were to write out their messages. The thunder of the motors made oral communication impossible.

Pilots and crew were to be fed on simple scientific rations. For a meal, each man was to get half a pint of broth, half a pint of coffee, four lumps of sugar, two meat sandwiches and an orange.

Physical examinations have shown that all of the flyers were in splendid condition to withstand hardships of the flight.

Missionaries Released.
Shanghai, September 1. — Bishop H. W. K. Mowll, his wife and six other members of the church missionary society captured by bandits near Chengtu, Schewan province, on April 6, have been released. This news was contained in a telegram received today by the local office of the church missionary society.

SEABOARD RESTORES 'ALL-FLORIDA SPECIAL'

Norfolk, Va., August 31. — Ever alert and progressive in provision of what the day and age calls better transportation, the Seaboard Air Line railway restores its famous "All-Florida Special" to service some sixty-five days earlier than last year.

The unprecedented movement to Florida from the New England states and from the central and middle western states has utterly smashed all records; hence the first trip southbound from Washington will be made September 1st and the first northbound from West Palm Beach, St. Petersburg and Jacksonville on September 9th.

The schedule will be fast and the stops few. Only Pullman, dining and baggage cars will be carried, and through connection will be made at Jacksonville for all points in Florida including the beautiful scenic highlands, the lake and ridge regions—Auburndale, Winter Haven, Ft. Pierce, Lake Wales, Avon Park, Sebring, Okeechobee and West Palm Beach, where prompt connection is made with first-class bus service to and from Miami.

Schedules provide for departure from Boston on the Federal Express at 6:30 p. m., from New York at 12:45 a. m. (sleeper open at 10 p. m.), from Philadelphia at 11:25 p. m., from Cleveland at 6:05 p. m., Pittsburgh at 10:30 p. m., and from Washington at 9:45 a. m., arriving Jacksonville the next morning at 8 a. m. and all resorts on the east and west coasts of Florida, including St. Petersburg, Sarasota and West Palm Beach during the late afternoon and early evening of the same day.

Northbound this fast train will leave West Palm Beach at 8 a. m., St. Petersburg at 10:30 a. m., Sarasota at 10:45 a. m., Tampa at 1 p. m., Jacksonville at 8:10 p. m., arriving Washington the following afternoon at 6:10 p. m., where direct connection is made with the Pennsylvania railroad trains for Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and the Federal Express arriving at Boston early the following morning.

The Seaboard Air Line is now the only railroad to both the east and west coasts of Florida, to central Florida and about the state over its own rails, without interconnection with any other line.

It is also the only railroad directly reaching both Tampa and St. Petersburg, the same service on the same line.

"Truth Serum" Expert Conquers Subjects Determined To Lie
Windsor, Ont., August 31. — (AP) — If verity is given what is said to have been a successful demonstration of his "truth serum," Dr. E. E. Erwin, a Texas criminologist, will have opened up a wide field of research, particularly for the detection of crime and the solution of many domestic problems. The "truth serum," medically known as scopolamine, it is claimed, compels a person into whom it is injected to give truthful answers to any question asked.

Before the International Association for Identification Saturday, Dr. Erwin is said to have proved to a committee the efficacy of his serum. He is said to have used three subjects, who took the serum "to prove it would not work." The three men were phoned, and Dr. Erwin was placed in their mouths and ears and then they were stretched on cots and the serum was injected into their left arms. They fell asleep almost immediately and when they awoke three hours later were surprised to find that they had answered correctly all questions put to them, although they admitted collectively they had decided before undergoing the test to make wrong answers.

ASK KLAN OFFICIALS BE CITED FOR CONTEMPT
Little Rock, Ark., August 31. — (AP) — Telegrams announcing the removal of Ming T. Cloud and James D. B. George, of Dallas, Texas, from their offices in the state and national organizations of the Women of the Ku Klux Klan, sent from St. Louis by Mrs. Robbie Gill Comer, imperial commander of the national order, resulted today in a petition for contempt citations against Mrs. Comer and her husband, James A. Comer, grand dragon of the realm of Arkansas, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

Plane Crashes, Good Judgment Saves Mitchell

San Antonio, Texas, August 31. — (AP) — Remarkable flying judgment and cool-headedness saved the life of Colonel William F. Mitchell, chief of the Eighth Corps Air Forces, when an airplane which he was piloting crashed here this morning. He was unscathed, but his plane was a wreck.

The accident occurred while Colonel Mitchell was taking off from the old remount station and in full view of the entire staff of the eighth corps area, present to inspect the field for aviation possibilities.

The plane poised for an instant as the motor cut at about 100 feet up. Beneath the machine was a maze of trees, ditches and fences. Colonel Mitchell gently set the machine down in the best cleared space he could locate quickly.

The under carriage struck a ditch and its nose ploughed into the ground, momentum carrying it over in a forward somersault where it landed on its back.

Colonel Mitchell tripped his belt, crawled from beneath the wreckage and grinned as he waved to the official group as a signal that he had not been injured.

Then he motored to Fort Sam Houston and ploughed into a huge pile of correspondence on his desk. "It's all in a day's work," he said.

PROBE SLAYING OF REPUBLICAN
NEGRO LEADER
St. Matthews, S. C., August 31. — (AP) — A four-fold investigation is being conducted by the South Carolina state police to determine the cause of the slaying of V. H. "Pink" Wheeler, wealthy negro republican leader who was shot and killed while he was apparently asleep on a bench at the Southern railway station here.

Representatives of the United States marshal's office, a state detective and officers of Calhoun county met at the town of St. Matthews here today to begin the investigation. It is believed Wheeler was shot from a moving automobile occupied by two or three men at a time when the rumbling of a passing freight train dented the report of the shooting. A load of buckshot entered the negro's throat.

Wheeler, who was reputed to be worth in the hundreds of thousands of dollars, received communications warning him to leave the community several months ago, and he did leave, going to Orangeburg, where he made a cotton buying business. In republican political circles the negro was regarded as a power.

Reports generally credited here were that Wheeler employed private detective to ascertain who had sent him the threatening letters that resulted in his leaving the county. That these reports had been turned over to officers investigating his death was a rumor here today.

FREE WOULD ABANDON ALASKAN RAILROAD

Seattle, Wash., August 31. — (AP) — Representative A. M. Free, of California, ranking member of the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries, who arrived yesterday from Alaska, announced that he advocated abandonment of the government railroad in Alaska, built for $50,000,000, on the ground that it was costing more than it was worth.

"Running from Seward to Fairbanks," he said, "the railroad serves a population of less than 5,000. The cost of maintaining it each year is approximately $400 per person of population along its route."

Free declared that on including payment of interest on its bonds or sinking fund, the railroad has cost the government $2,000,000 a year in maintenance and that the future held no prospect of a reduction.

Asked what remedy he would suggest, he said: "Pull up the rails and make a highway of it, or build a highway from Portage Bay and abandon the railroad from Seward to Anchorage."

STRIKE OF SEAMEN GROWS IN BRITAIN
London, August 31. — (AP) — The strike of seamen against the recently announced wage reduction assumed a more serious aspect in several British ports today. The movement spread to Southampton, where the crew of the liner Albatross went on strike, refusing to sign on, and also to Hull, where the men are meeting tonight to take a final vote on the question of a walkout.

A test vote today unanimously favored the strike and it is feared a number of sailings will have to be postponed.

The owners of the Albatross express the belief that a crew will be obtained for that vessel, but great uncertainty prevails regarding several others due to sail from Southampton during the week. The engineering staffs are most affected.

One of the vessels reported to be affected is the liner Star of the South, due to sail for New York Wednesday.

Advices this afternoon indicated that the number of seamen who had already signed for the voyage had given notice terminating their engagements. White Star officials said they neither could confirm nor deny the report, but added they expected the vessel to sail as scheduled.

Spencer, for a writ of habeas corpus against A. A. McCord, warden of the Tennessee penitentiary, and Barr's execution will be deferred until the proceedings in the state court are reviewed. Hearing on the petition will be held here next week.

REPRIMANDS SON, GUEST OBJECTS; SLAYING FOLLOWS

Jasper, Ala., August 31. — (AP) — J. Langston, 50, who is well known throughout Alabama as a newspaper editor, was shot and killed last night at his home in Red Star by Ed Myrick, 35, a miner. The trouble arose, officers said, when Myrick became quarrelsome and Langston ordered him away from his home.

Myrick was visiting at Langston's home. Sheriff Kilgore said that Langston reprimanded his son, Frank, and that Myrick began quarreling with Langston about the reprimand. Langston, the officers said, told Myrick to leave the house and when he refused to do so went to the home of a neighbor where he borrowed a shotgun. Myrick, seeing Langston approaching the house with the gun, procured his revolver which was in a room in the Langston home.

The men met and struggled in a hand-to-hand encounter. In the fight Langston's gun was discharged. Myrick then fired, officers said, killing the editor.

Langston was to have begun work today as acting editor of The Jasper Mountain Eagle. He was for some time editor of the Cordova Herald and at one time worked on The Montgomery Advertiser.

40 YEARS OF SERVICE CELEBRATED BY CAMP

W. M. Camp, superintendent of the southeastern division of the Pullman company and head of the Atlanta Old Guard, Monday celebrated his fortieth anniversary with the organization for which he began work as a conductor. He made his first run on September 1, 1885, on a train between Atlanta and Nashville.

He served as conductor for three years, then as night agent, storekeeper, receiving cashier, district superintendent and finally as head of the division.

Mr. Camp has received governmental recognition for his services in handling troops during the Spanish-American and the world wars. During the recent war, two-thirds of the army camps were in his territory. He was in charge of the movements of the first division of the United States troops which were sent to France.

At the time he began his career there were only two Pullman lines operating out of Atlanta as compared with about 100 today. "The first Pullman cars were lighted with candles and were heated by coal stoves," he remarked.

On September 16 Mr. Camp is to make an 11-day visit to Cuba, leaving with the Old Guard. The guardsmen will be guests of honor of various civic organizations during the trip, and in Cuba will be special guests of the government.

Dr. E. M. Hunt.
Dr. E. M. Hunt, 43, of Austell, Ga., Monday night at the residence. Barclay and Brandon in charge.

ADVERSE BALANCE
REDUCED IN JULY
London, August 31. — (AP) — The adverse balance of overseas trade diminished in July, according to the American Chamber of Commerce in a summary of British trade for August. Compared with the previous month, imports declined by 12,000,000 pounds sterling and exports increased by 6,000,000 pounds sterling.

But compared with July, 1924, the volume of trade shows considerable contraction. Unemployment, mounting rapidly, reached 1,298,400 more than 100,000 above the beginning of August. Labor unrest is subsiding.

Announcement was made Monday that the Unity Trust company, managed by organized labor, and supported largely by the investment of union labor money, will open for business today in the Wynn Cloughdon building.

The labor project in Atlanta is an extension of other financial ventures entered into with the greatest success in Cleveland, Ohio; New York city, St. Louis and other cities.

According to a prospectus regarding the company, the Unity Trust company was organized to "foster, promote and develop the welfare of the wage earners of the southeast."

Members are urged to invest their money in this trust company in order to mobilize their financial strength in an institution of their own, it is stated.

Bush, general counsel. Trustees are Val Fitzpatrick, J. B. Hogarth, Louis P. Marquardt, Charles B. Gramling, Otis Bass, Izzie Bashinski, C. M. Thoren, Billie B. Bush and W. S. Richardson.

$170,400 STATE MONEY WILL BE SPENT HERE FOR IMPROVEMENTS

A total of $170,400 for improvements to the state capitol, emergency work at Georgia Tech, purchase of the governor's mansion and several other local public building improvements of the state was appropriated by the recent legislature and will be spent with Atlanta firms, it was stated at the capitol Monday.

An appropriation of $75,000 is to be spent in cleaning, repairing and painting the capitol building, $35,000 is to be spent in emergency work at Georgia Tech, $27,500 goes for public buildings and grounds, including furnishings for the new governor's mansion and paying for the loud speaker in the house of representatives, and $80,000 for purchase of the governor's mansion on the Prado.

Only $20,000 of the governor's mansion appropriation is available immediately, as the resolution provides the purchase price shall be paid at a rate of $20,000 a year out of rentals on the old mansion site, where the Henry Grady hotel is located. Another appropriation goes to an Atlanta firm for a house built at the state training school for girls, an amount of $8,150.

Enraged Bull Slain After Exciting Chase Through City Streets

An enraged bull which had created a reign of terror in the vicinity of Marietta and Means streets and along the Bankhead highway Monday afternoon, was shot down with seventeen pistol and shotgun charges by police, who pursued the animal more than a mile and a half. The finish to his career of charging automobiles and frightening pedestrians came only after he had fallen into a ditch near Fox street. Already carrying a number of wounds the animal tried to rise, but was shot dead.

The first alarm was sounded after the bull charged an automobile on Marietta street and almost demolished it, driving it up on the sidewalk and into a yard. The driver was forced to flee for his life.

The entire squad of all officers at police headquarters, headed by Captain G. C. Butler and accompanied by Plainclothes Captain A. J. Holcombe, were hurried to the scene. Followed by a crowd estimated at 1,500 persons officers pursued the maddened bull for more than a mile and a half, sending charges of buckshot and pistol bullets into the animal.

The bull, according to police, was the property of J. T. Mitchell, stock dealer, and was being taken to the stock yards.

GUESTS OF FULTON PLAN TO CELEBRATE FIRST ANNIVERSARY

Following a year of prosperity even greater than had been expected, Harry F. Zobel, manager of the new Robert Fulton hotel, announced Monday that today will mark the first year of the hotel's existence. Guests who have made their homes in the hotel during that entire period have arranged for a party to celebrate the anniversary.

Mr. Zobel, in discussing the first year of the Robert Fulton, declared hotel business, as well as other lines, shows undoubtedly that Atlanta is a center of business and that it is growing in population.

"There are three big, new hotels in Atlanta," said Mr. Zobel, "and they are doing good business. In spite of this the old ones, also are well-filled. There is no doubt that lots of people are coming here and staying here."

LAST SERVICES TODAY FOR MOTHER AND BABY

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 o'clock today for Mrs. G. F. Tweedy, 35, of 129 Oakland street and her infant boy who was born 10 minutes after her death Sunday afternoon at Grady hospital.

A Caesarian operation was performed at the hospital and the infant lived for about 15 hours. The bodies were taken to the chapel of Harry G. Poole, where services will be held. Mrs. Tweedy is survived by her husband.

$30,000 DAMAGES IN DOWNTOWN FIRE

Damage estimated at $30,000 to the stock of the Cottogin Seed and Feed company, at 328-334, Marietta street, and damage to the building of a like amount was caused Monday by fire of undetermined origin which called the entire resources of the fire department into play. C. M. Phillips, a fireman of engine company No. 11, was overcome by smoke and heat while fighting the flames and was carried to safety down a ladder. He recovered shortly afterward while sitting in Chief Cody's automobile.

The fire for a time threatened to attack the warehouse of the Piggly Wiggly corporation and a building occupied by the Selig company, adjoining the Cottogin plant, but they were saved by hard work. Some damage by water was reported done to the Piggly Wiggly warehouse stock.

The building occupied by the Cottogin company was a two-story modern structure erected in 1914 at a cost of $75,000.

BARON AND WILSON HOTEL INTERESTS LEASE SEMINOLE

Announcement was made here Monday that the Baron and Wilson hotel interests, who operate the Robert Fulton and Cecil hotels in Atlanta, have completed negotiations for purchase of the 83-year lease, and furnishings and equipment of the Seminole hotel in Jacksonville, and will take over operation about September 1.

Addition of the Seminole to the Baron and Wilson chain will make it one of the strongest hotel organizations in the south. In addition to the two Atlanta hotels, others in the chain include the Hillman, in Birmingham; the Exchange, in Montgomery; the Mecklenburg, in Charlotte, and the Terminal, in Augusta.

Figures involved in the deal were not divulged, but owing to the high class character of the hotel, and the fact that the lease has 83 years to run, it is understood that it is one of the largest hotel transactions of its kind ever consummated.

Extensive plans are now under consideration for enlargement of the Seminole, with the possible addition of two stories and other improvements. The Seminole will be operated under the personal direction of Baron and Wilson for a short time until they appoint a resident manager.

Moving Vans Send 'Homeless' Ones To Busy Streets

BY C. H. HAMILTON.

There was a great clattering of human feet about downtown Atlanta Monday and many were the queries as to what it was all about. The fact of the matter is that these thousands of folk had come downtown to get away from home. An obvious fact, say you? Maybe so, but the descent of department stores, etc., Monday was because most of descendents had no home to which they might return until those in charge of the operation had moved to the new apartment or house or what not.

After some suspicion that moving day was just what it is supposed to be, namely, one day in which people move their household and other belongings, the mighty truth has struck. Moving day has become two days. One of these days is August 31 and the other is September 1, so you may expect to see the same great crowd of alleged shoppers pounding the hot streets of downtown Atlanta again today. They must go somewhere while the parade of vans is in progress and a picture show, a shopping tour, or something of the sort is as good an alibi as anything else might be.

The first streak of dawn had scarcely streaked Monday before the business of getting moved started, and the movers were at it until night. Many an aching back found rest and contentment of the balmy sort after the beds had been placed in the new bedrooms and the family had been fed from improvised food.

MASONS TO RESUME WEEKLY MEETINGS

The first fall meeting of the Masonic club will be held at Peacock cafe Wednesday at noon. A general election of officers for the ensuing year will take place and the club will meet regularly throughout the year.

J. M. B. Hossey, vice president and treasurer of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company and general chairman of the Community Chest campaign, will be principal speaker and will outline plans for the Chest campaign this fall.

ATLANTA TEACHERS WILL MEET AT NOON

All teachers employed in Atlanta city schools will meet at noon today at Wesley Memorial church to receive final instructions concerning their year's work from Professor Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools. The white teachers will meet at their respective schools at 9 o'clock and will then go to the church for the general meeting. The negro teachers will report to Wesley Memorial church at 9 o'clock this morning.

Superintendent Sutton urged all parents of children who are to be entered in the schools for the first time or who are to be placed in kindergarten, to obtain certificates for these children from the census and attendance office on the fourth floor of the city hall.

The registration offices were crowded Monday with parents who were entering their children for the new school term. It is expected that the attendance this year will show increases over last year.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR JOHN KELLY

Funeral services were held Monday morning at 10 o'clock for John Kelly, who died Thursday at a private sanitarium. Mr. Kelly was well known in Atlanta.

Services were held from Sacred Heart church, Rev. Father J. N. Howe, officiating. He leaves one son, John, and one brother, Thomas Kelly, of Scranton, Pa.

DUELISTS UNDER BOND AFTER PISTOL BATTLE

J. F. Tompkins, arrested Sunday night with H. W. Duncan, after a pistol duel in the Peachtree Arcade, was released Monday on $500 bond. Duncan made bond Saturday night. No date for hearing the case has been set.

The shooting is said by police to have been the outgrowth of court litigation some time ago in which Tompkins charged Duncan with paying undue attentions to Mrs. Tompkins.

WIDOW ASKS COURT TO PREVENT SALE OF HUSBAND'S BODY

A temporary injunction preventing Ivy Brothers, negro undertakers, from selling the body of Fleming Berry, negro, was signed Monday by Judge W. D. Ellis, in Fulton superior court. Hearing on a petition filed by Dora Berry, the widow, which alleges that the undertakers are threatening to sell the body to a local university and are not carrying out their contract, has been set for this morning before Judge Ellis.

The petition alleges that the negroes employed by Ivy Brothers to prepare the body for burial and to send it to Washington, Ga. She states that she made arrangements to give the firm $65, and that this amount was paid. The undertakers then refused to turn over the body to the express company or to anyone else, stating that they were going to sell it to a university, the petition charges.

SENATORS DENY CUT IN HOLDER'S SALARY

Letters stating that the act of the recent legislature which reorganizes the state highway department so as to give the board more authority does not cut the salary of John N. Holder, chairman, from $10,000 a year to $10 a day or $3,650 a year, were received Monday by Mr. Holder from Senators H. P. DeLaPierriere, 33rd, and Shirley C. Boykin, 37th, who drew the bill.

The code of Georgia specifies that no code section can be repealed by indirection, it is pointed out, and to be repealed a code section would have to be distinctly specified. The act referred to is said to contain no distinct repealer of the chairman's salary.

It had been claimed that the act cut Mr. Holder's salary by striking one section of the highway department act. The attorney general's office has issued no opinion on the matter, and will not do so unless requested by the governor. Seward Smith, attorney of the highway department, said Monday that he will prepare an opinion for the board following Friday's meeting of the highway commissioners.

FIVE ROAD CONTRACTS AWARDED ON FRIDAY

In Camden county on the Brunswick-Kingsland-Jacksonville highway, four miles of grade road and one timber bridge.

In Houston county, on the Macon-Perry road, 2.97 miles of surface treated highway.

In Jefferson county, 1.11 miles of concrete paving in the city of Louisville.

Atlanta Now Benefiting By Increase in Building Operations in Southeast

American Radiator Company Reports Heavy Increases in All Nine of Southern States Served.

Within the last 60 days general increases in building operations in the nine southern states covered by the American Radiator company, 232 Peachtree street, have brought substantial increases in the business of that company handled through Atlanta, according to information given The Constitution Monday by A. F. Westerfield, manager.

goods sold in the southern territory served by the Atlanta branch as compared to last year.

Citing figures showing specific evidence of exceptional business activity in the territory served by the Atlanta branch, Mr. Westerfield said that his office was third in the United States among the American Radiator branches in the sales of Arcola heaters, one of the leading products of the company.

"We were third in selling Arcolas and also third in selling Vectos," Mr. Westerfield said. "The only branches exceeding the southern branch are those at New York and Chicago."

The business of the Atlanta branch in south Georgia is better now than at any other time in the history of the local office, according to Mr. Westerfield.

"Our company has great faith in Atlanta and I have great faith in Atlanta," Mr. Westerfield said. "We are pleased with the volume of business we are receiving and are pleased over the increases in various parts of the Atlanta territory."

that disturbed the factor of mine costs. In addition, they rejected the mine workers' demand for complete recognition of the union for previous sentimental reasons.

"They are again engaged in their time-honored and traditional occupation of levying all of the tariff which the traffic will bear. For a month past, throughout the anthracite region, feverish activity has been maintained at every breaker, washer, culm and state bank. The operators, with their usual modesty and virtue, have been taking advantage of the public fear of a strike to unload at enhanced prices a greatly augmented tonnage of coal of inferior quality. Their present policy is to consider only of commercial profit, utterly ignoring the rights of the anthracite mine workers to fair treatment and entirely devoid of any concern for the public interest."

"The mine workers have no alternative except to await the time when the anthracite operators, having effected a maximum public exploitation, will be ready to discuss sanely the problems of a new contract."

Miners Are Solid.

"The anthracite mine workers to a man are solidly arrayed behind the policies of their organization in seeking proper consideration for the demands of the Scranton tri-district convention. Their morale is perfect and they are prepared to carry on with vigor for any period to the end that their merited claims shall be given just consideration. Thus, in the meantime, 120 men who are mangled and butchered every eight-hour day the collier work, will be saved to the great joy and satisfaction of their loved ones. In addition, two men who would be killed in the collieries each eight-hour work day will have their lives extended, which will lessen the number of mourning widows and weeping orphans.

"The public need have no apprehension or fear of disorders in the anthracite communities. The anthracite mine workers are peaceful, law-abiding citizens, as well as a deeply religious and God-fearing people. The public authorities in the anthracite territory attest the fact that during a strike of nearly six months' duration in 1922, not a single case of breach of the peace among the 158,000 workers came to their attention. Such a record had never been equalled in any encampment of a disciplined army of the same number in all history. With this splendid example of the conscientious ideals of good citizenship, the public may expect that the tranquility of the anthracite communities will not in any manner be disturbed in the present instance."

Watch Coolidge's Action.

Interest in the miners' headquarters here was temporarily divided for a few hours this afternoon between the approaching suspension and dispatches from Swampscott, Mass. Close attention was paid to reports that John Hays Hammond had been in conference with President Coolidge and had urged him to ask congress to adopt recommendations contained in the report of the United States coal commission of 1923, of which Mr. Hammond himself was chairman.

Meanwhile, miners in the coal fields proceeded steadily in preparation for their complete demobilization at midnight.

Christ J. Golden, president of district nine in Shamokin, issued a final instruction to his 50,000 followers to avoid any show of violence, which "will only serve to injure our cause."

A $100,000 monthly levy for the union relief funds will be made upon the 10,000 maintenance workers who remain in the mines. Announcement to this effect, made from Mr. Golden's office in Shamokin last night, advised that each of the miners would be required by the tri-district executive board to contribute $5 bi-weekly to the union treasury.

Mining Steadily Ceases.

A steady cessation of mining operations marked the day in the Scranton district. Street scenes in the coal city took on a holiday atmosphere as the diggers drifted into town, joining the ranks of the 4,200 men laid off at the shops of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad last Friday. While officials declined to discuss the shop shutdown, the coal men were generally accepted as the likely cause.

The huge storage plant of the Hudson Coal company, at Carbonade, continued working day and night as it began to rack a second 500,000 tons of coal for shipment. The plant held 1,000,000 tons ten days ago.

President Inglis, of the Glen Alden interests in Scranton, ordered all mules hoisted to the surface today, which was taken there to indicate belief that the suspension would last a considerable time.

Railroad to Cut Crews.

In Hazleton, the Lehigh Valley railroad announced it would lay off 23 more mine-run crews as soon as the present coal rush was cleaned up. The Hazleton Motor club today reported exceptional demands for road maps on the part of miners planning pleasure trips.

The Panther Creek valley reported bumper production throughout the day, but work fell off sharply as day shifts came out. Night forces were depleted and consisted principally of timber and gangway men, and clean-up workers. No new coal was to be cut, it was said.

"The Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, of which Samuel D. Warner, chairman of the anthracite operators conference, is president, closed down its collieries at 4:30 p. m. The company, like the Glen Alden, brought up its mules for one of their rare glimpses of daylight."

SUSPENSION IS CALLED UNFORTUNATE, UNNECESSARY.

Philadelphia, August 31.—(AP)—W. W. Inglis, president of the Glen Alden Coal company, of Scranton, and chairman of the anthracite coal operators' scale committee, in Scranton tonight deprecated the suspension at midnight as "unfortunate and unnecessary."

Mr. Inglis said:

"Let us forget the anthracite mines are idle this morning and more than 158,000 men are out of their jobs. When evening comes these men will have lost $1,200,000 in wages. That is the daily payroll of the mines."

"Not only will miners and mines lose, but business of all kinds will suffer. This misfortune comes upon us 'unfortunate and unnecessary' to allow us to keep going while a new contract is being made."

problem, because of its indifference to consequences, ignorance and colossal gullibility. . . . The attack on the market must be a matter of education, and can best be conducted by those organizations and individuals interested in law observance and community welfare."

OCONEE RIVER HIT BY LONG DROUGHT

Dublin, Ga., August 31.—(Special).—Extremes of water depth in the Oconee river have been reached this year, with a record in each instance. In late January and very early February the river went to the height of flood stage, reaching just 2-10 inches of reaching 30 feet. It is now lower than it has been in many years, lower than in the memory of most inhabitants.

It is possible now to walk dry shod across about four-fifths of the channel at the shoal just below the railroad bridge. This shoal extended across the river once, but a boat channel was cut through one end many years ago on the east side of the river. It is a bed of rocks, and ordinarily is covered with water, but now from the west bank any one can walk on the dry, hot rocks to the boat channel which is about 50 feet wide. River men say the boat channel can be waded.

Depth of the water is too low to measure just now. The government depth gauge is some two feet or more above the top of the water now, and the bottom of bridge piers are showing in some places. Great piles of rock placed to protect these piers in high water are high and dry now, and some of them are showing now that have not been seen above water in many years.

FUNERAL NEAR SHOALS FOR BROOKS CHEELY

Sparta, Ga., August 31.—(Special).—The body of Brooks Cheely, 35, former Hancock county man, who died in Miami Friday night, was received here this morning and carried to the family burial ground near Shoals, where interment took place.

He is survived by his widow and one daughter, besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cheely and several brothers and sisters. He was born and reared in this county and lived here until a few years ago when he removed to Savannah to take a position with the Atlantic Coast Line. He had only been living in Miami a few months.

A movement has been started to induce wealthy men of Great Britain to follow the example of Americans in giving to educational institutions.

Dominion!

Some cities rule regions by reason of their irresistible go-aheadness and sound commercial and industrial leadership.

HOLLYWOOD is essentially a front rank city—a dominion city—a city with only a four-year past, but a future that glows with the assured prospect of commercial dominance of a great East Coast region.

The finest deep sea harbor between New York and Panama is being constructed at Hollywood. Cost, $15,000,000. The world's ocean traffic will come to Hollywood as naturally as it does to Boston or Baltimore. The properties that can be sold then at tremendous profits will be those which are bought NOW.

No public utility, civic improvement, or edifice, or mercantile, financial or professional facility is lacking to make HOLLYWOOD a full-fledged municipality. Add to this its peerless location, directly on the ocean's rolling edge, and you have the reason for the eager, unabated demand for Hollywood realty.

HOLLYWOOD is a superb ocean resort city with facilities for the keenest enjoyment of all sea ports—but it is not merely a pleasure spot: its civic fabric is as substantially woven as that of any northern center of industry.

Early Solution Of Struggle Over 'Lost Lands' In Florida Seen By Barron G. Collier

Eighth Arrest Made In Controversy as Brother of Leader of Williams Faction Is Sued for Libel

Marco, Fla., August 31.—(AP)—During a lull between breaches among settlers and representatives of Barron G. Collier in the "lost land" struggle, in which Governor Martin has officially intervened, H. B. Williams, brother of W. G. Williams, leader of the settlers' faction, was arrested by sheriff W. R. Maynard the latter part of last week, it became known today, on a charge of criminal libel. At a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace A. B. McClelland, he was released on bond of $500 for a higher court.

The arrest is the eighth growing out of differences between the two factions.

The charge of criminal libel, it was said, is the result of letters Williams is said to have written to newspapers, charging Sheriff Maynard and other county officials with irregularities.

"One more petty annoyance," was the way W. G. Williams characterized the arrest and declared "it has no other significance, whatever."

Barron G. Collier, who has been entertaining William G. McAdoo in Collier county, and who said McAdoo is interested in the development to the extent that he has asked reservations of lands, declared he regrets the arrest of Williams. He also expressed regret at the arrest of Captain Jim Daniels, who invaded the disputed territory to bring the controversy into court on a test question.

"I told Captain Jim that, as far as I am concerned, no charge will be pressed against him," Collier said.

"I believe he has been the victim of a frame-up. I bought his land several years ago, paying his price for it, and gave him permission to live on it as long as he liked."

See Early Solution.

"My impression is that the entire situation on Marco Island, which has been a source of great embarrassment to me, will be cleared up before long."

"Anybody who questions the morality of our position, as far as the government is concerned, is concerned with the morality of the fact."

"It is alleged by the Williams faction that the road contracting firm of Alexander, Ramsey, and Kerr, which I own, has been making great profits. Since I pay from 75 to 80 per cent of the taxes of Collier county, it is obviously absurd to think I would encourage wasting my own money."

"The work of this firm has been done virtually at cost and may cause loss between $50,000 and $100,000 a year. I had to help the county buy dredges for road building out of my own pocket and had to endorse personally the notes given in payment for the county jail."

Audit of Books Awaited.

Meanwhile, the anti-Collier faction, led by W. H. Surrency, justice of the peace at Naples; Adolphus Carson, of Immokalee; Captain J. C. Rye, postmaster at Marco; and Thomas Curry, of Caxambas, are awaiting the results of an audit ordered by Governor Martin.

The audit of Collier county books was ordered by the governor after a delegation visited the capitol and told him the records of the county were closed to their inspection. Among other things, they demanded to know what became of the proceeds of a recent $50,000 bond issue for public improvements.

MANY NOTABLES ON WAY TO ENTER TARPON MARATHON

Chicago, August 31.—(AP)—C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central railroad, and a party of Chicagoans were on their way today to the Gulf coast to join a delegation of southerners for the "tarpon marathon," to be given Wednesday by the Pass Christian, Miss., chamber of commerce.

Emulators of Isaac Walton, who will match skill as anglers, will include former Governor John M. Parker, of Louisiana, and Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, who are sponsoring the contest; Governor H. L. Whitfield, of Mississippi; Senators J. E. Ransdell and Edward Broussard, of Louisiana; J. T. McEllar, of Alabama, and Frederick L. Thompson, of Birmingham, member of the United States shipping board.

About 40 men angle for honors for the first tarpon caught, the largest one landed and the greatest number captured.

Huntsville Will Be Distributive Center Of Muscle Shoals Power

Huntsville, Ala., August 31.—(Special).—Plans of the Alabama Power company in making use of the enormous power of Muscle Shoals, provide for making Huntsville the power distributive center of a large part of northern Alabama and parts of Georgia and the Carolinas, according to information given out here.

There is a line that has been in operation for some time here from Gadsden and bringing 110,000 volts, which has been the dependence of nearly all the cities and towns of this region and their suburbs during the last four years, but within the last few weeks the Alabama Power company has completed a line from Sheffield to Huntsville to carry another 110,000 volts. This line has been put in service recently to bring power from the great steam plant and within 10 days it is expected to bring in a part of the power from Wilson dam, which has been put in service because of the emergency caused by drought.

Practically unlimited hydro-electric power is declared to be available throughout this region from now on.

Real "Diamond Dick" Revealed as Citizen Of Town in Nebraska

Norfolk, Neb., August 31.—(AP)—Citizens of this city have learned for the first time that Mr. Richard J. Tanner, who has resided here for a number of years in his reality the "Diamond Dick" of wild west fame, who 25 years ago disappeared from the show world, has been an associate was such characters as "Buffalo Bill" Cody, "Wild Bill" Hancock and "Pawnee Bill," Major Gordon Lilly.

The disclosure was made in the parade during the frontier day celebration when Dr. Tanner, astride a pinto pony and dressed in the regalia of "Diamond Dick," passed in front of the reviewing stand.

During his entire residence here Dr. Tanner's true identity has been a secret, and until it was discovered a month ago by the American Legion, committee men who were planning their annual pioneer celebration his "incognito" was perfect.

W. G. M'ADOO SILENT ON POLITICAL PLANS

Miami, Fla., August 31.—(AP)—William Gibbs McAdoo, son-in-law of the late President Woodrow Wilson, who is in Miami on a brief tour of Florida, only smiled and replied, "well, I'm going back to my law business in California right away," when newspaper reporters asked him if he plans to again enter national politics. Mr. McAdoo planned to leave Miami today, starting for his home in California.

NEW CONSTITUTION FOR CHILE APPROVED

Santiago, Chile, August 31.—(AP)—The new Chilean constitution drafted by President Alessandri and a special committee has been approved by people. The returns from Santiago and the provinces in yesterday's referendum indicate that a tremendous majority favored adoption of the constitution as drafted, without alteration.

COLLIER EXPLAINS 'REPRISAL CHARGE'

Senator J. C. Collier, of Birmingham, senator from the 22nd district in the 1925 general assembly, who recently charged that Governor Clifford Walker's veto of certain measures relating to Lamar county and Gordon Collier was merely "reprisal" because the senator had not supported the governor's tax reform program, has forwarded a statement to The Constitution in which he goes into details of the matter.

Senator Collier states that "confusing" ideas of the matter "were drawn from recent news stories of his charges and that he wished to 'get the facts' before the people of the state."

Collier's Statement.

The statement follows: "I notice in your issue of today a news article regarding the veto by Governor Walker of two bills applicable to Lamar county, my home county. The article being somewhat mixed up and confusing to the public I feel it my duty to correct same in order that the public may be better understood and know that local bills were vetoed by Governor Walker."

As a member of the Georgia state first from the 22nd district, I was appointed by President J. H. Smith of the senate, one of the five senators to investigate the alleged irregular acts in connection with the management of the highway department of the state of Georgia.

It was my duty to investigate the alleged irregular acts in connection with the management of the highway department of the state of Georgia.

The stenographer at that time was under the jurisdiction of Governor Walker's first cousin, W. R. Maynard, who was chief engineer of the state highway department. As a member of the investigating committee in passing up the cash advances to the Hon. John H. Holder in rendering our decision, we likewise passed up the stenographer's bill, which I had opposed.

I stated to one of my friends that I knew that my local legislation would have to suffer if I had opposed the bill of Governor Walker's bill, a bond issue of fifteen million dollars for school purposes.

Opposed Taxation Plan.

I voted against this bill because I thought the money would be squandered and thrown away. I opposed Governor Walker's income tax bill which was lost in the house for the reason that it would drive away big business away from our state and was not a good law.

I opposed before the state senate Governor Walker's classification tax bill because I did not think it fair as it would cause certain classes of notes, accounts, etc., to be taxed two or three times.

I had a conference with Governor Walker last spring and he exchanged several letters with him and he knew quite well my views regarding taxation. I also had a conference with Governor Walker at his request five or six days before the classification tax bill reached the senate floor. I then stated to Governor Walker that I could not support his bill and again handed him a statement of my reasons.

These bills were not introduced to thwart any other tax measure, neither did I try to push them over the floor of the general assembly, but they were merely placed before the people of the state of Georgia for their consideration and with a view that they would be the only fair tax and be supported by the volume of trade and not by widowed women and worn-out men.

Regarding my local bills applicable to Lamar county, I will say that I think the governor's action is a precedent unheard of. Bill No. 228, which was allowing the tax assessors of the town of Barnesville to be elected by the voters thereof, and for an official of the town to be a freeholder for two years before election, reached the governor's office on August 18.

According to law unless this bill was approved by the governor on August 25, it was dead. A veto was not necessary, however, on August 25 to place the bill in the hands of the governor. The bill was dead and to get it published in the papers several times the state governor marked the bills "disapproved and vetoed."

His Local Conditions.

Senate Bill No. 207 which was placed in the governor's office on August 21 was likewise applicable to Lamar county, allowing the people of the county to elect two commissioners to serve in conjunction with the ordinary to form a commission of three who in turn would select a school director. As Lamar county now exists, it is managed solely by the ordinary, it is absolute dictator and boss, and he is the father of one man, that at present is dictating the town, the county, and all of the schools therein—even dictating to the farmers out in the country as to whom they shall have in their school boards and what they shall do.

This party who went up to see Governor Walker on August 25 did not represent the town of Barnesville, or the citizens of Lamar county, but represented themselves and was headed by the ordinary, who is the county boss.

These bills were favored both by the county representative, Hon. H. C. Chappell, and myself, as state senators from this district. They were not introduced before either house. A copy of the bills before they were introduced were forwarded to the mayor and the citizens of Barnesville, and when this party appeared Governor Walker did not demand that they be introduced. Although one of the bills was dead by his failure to approve same and the other would have been dead the next day. So I can only construe that my business is that he favored the governor's personal taxation bills.

Visited Governor.

Now in regard to the senate bill No. 228, amending the charter of Gordon college. This was signed by the governor on August 18 and became a law on that date, before these other troubles had come up. That was my reason for rushing the bill as I did, and the governor evidently signed the bill without taking notice thereof—and on the morning of August 25 when I went into his office to check up these bills I could not see the record kept in the governor's Columbus, Ga., August 31.—Alton West, 41, lineman of the Columbus Electric and Power company, was electrocuted at 8:45 o'clock this morning when he came in contact with a telephone wire near the Goat Rock Power station on the Alabama side of the Chattahoochee river.

For three hours efforts were made to resuscitate the unconscious man, but they were without avail.

West is survived by his widow; two sons and six daughters.

WEST POINT CHAMBER REPORTS UPON WORK

West Point, Ga., August 31.—(Special).—An excellent report of the past year's work of the West Point chamber of commerce, was read by J. T. Whilden, secretary, at the annual meeting last week.

The occasion was enlivened by a splendid banquet, and by the presence of a number of women. Judge A. V. Cozart, of Columbus, and John H. Hovarth, of Lanett, spoke.

A board of directors, numbering 12 most of whom were on the board the past year, was elected. Officers will be elected by the board.

FOUR STATES ADOPT SHORT AFFIDAVIT TO TRANSFER STOCK

New York, August 31.—(AP)—Tax officials of New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Connecticut today adopted a short form of affidavit for use in permitting transfers of stock by any resident in the four states.

The action was taken at the last of three conferences to eliminate red tape surrounding stock transfers in administering estates.

Deputy State Tax Commissioner Cole, of Albany, said Alabama and Florida become automatically entitled to the benefit of reciprocity, because they do not impose any inheritance or death taxes upon the personal property of non-residents.

"Shirt-Tail Charlie," Veteran Seminole, Passes in Florida

Fort Landerdale, Fla., August 31.—(AP)—"Shirt-tail" Charlie, 60-year-old Seminole Indian, a familiar figure here for more than 25 years, died in the Seminole village here Sunday night after a brief illness. "Shirt-tail" Charlie gained his name because of the skirt dress he always wore.

Charlie in his younger days was an expert with gun and bow and arrow. Stories told here are that Charlie was required by the tribe to wear the peculiar dress because of a misdeed committed by him many years ago. Since that time he has always appeared garbed the same.

DOZIER TO ASSUME STATE OFFICE TODAY

James H. Dozier, of Athens, will take office today as state tax commissioner, succeeding H. J. Fullbright, resigned, who will re-engage in the practice of law in Waynesboro.

Governor Walker was to have sworn Mr. Dozier in as tax commissioner Monday, but was out of the city. He will be sworn in probably today, as the governor is expected to return to the city this morning.

An Age-Old Health Secret

RESTORES WATER'S LOST ELEMENT

solved—made available to everyone by this amazing product. Provides a health spring—similar in effectiveness to Hot Springs, Arkansas—for every home.

ALMOST every sale of a Revigator—the health spring for homes—results directly in the sale of two, three or four others. For those who try radio-active water become enthusiasts.

They see results. They recognize the benefits within an amazingly short period. They tell their friends.

But those quick results mean much more than merely making friends for the Revigator, as important and gratifying as that is to us.

What Quick Results Mean

The almost immediate effects of drinking radio-active water are an indication that the body needs this water. It is contributing something to physical well-being that nature demands.

For radio-active water is natural water. Spring water, taken directly at the spring, is radio-active.

The waters of famous Hot Springs, Arkansas, and other health resorts are radio-active. In fact, except for this radio-activity, they differ, little, if any, from the ordinary hydrant water you drink.

What It Does

Radio-activity in water is simply Nature's method of aiding the body to eliminate properly. It helps the bodily organs to discharge those poisons which too often remain to lower vitality and resistance to disease.

It makes people, who are normally well, sounder and stronger.

That is the real purpose of the Revigator. It revitalizes water so that everyone in homes and offices may enjoy true, natural water at all times.

A Plus Value

Obviously, though this is not its real purpose, the Revigator frequently benefits people who are not entirely well.

WARNING TO FAT PEOPLE

People who are heavier than they should be are almost always troubled more or less with constipation and it constantly tends to still further increase their weight.

The constant taking of harsh purgatives is bad, and eating a lot of Bran with cream and sugar on it each morning increases weight also.

Physicians declare and doctors are now prescribing for fat people a new laxative, sugar-free, wheat Bran wafer—a sort of diuretic—system becomes as regular as clock-work and regularly tends to reduce weight in a surprising way. Ask your druggist for a 25c carton of Gilbert's Bran-O-Lax Wafers. Everybody likes to eat them and you'll never need pills and purgatives in your house anymore. If your druggist hasn't Bran-O-Lax Wafers, we will gladly send you a package upon receipt of 25c in stamps. Gilbert Bran-O-Lax Co., 467 O St., N. W., Washington, D. C.—(adv.)

COAL MINERS' STRIKE.

The war in the anthracite coal fields is apparently without justification from either angle of the controversy.It is not in fact a miners' "strike."
It is simply a suspension of operations precipitated by miners because there is, after the past midnight, no industrial agreement in existence.The order as issued is not a strike order. It merely recites the fact that inasmuch as the scale committee has been unable to negotiate a new agreement the industry "will be without any agreement on September 1," hence and in consequence
"a suspension of mining will automatically take place."It is by large and far a situation really more serious for the 158,000 miners and their families involved than for the public.The men will lose $1,000,000 a day in wages and the whole industry will run the risk of losing its business as an "automatic" consequence of the desire of the two rival groups of leaders to gain a maneuvering advantage in a controversy.It will be recalled that two years ago the miners received—in the agreement for a 10 per cent increase and a strict eight hour day—more than they had expected.At the present time the anthracite operators are in a healthy condition, with mines running full time—different from the situation in the bituminous fields.There is apparently every good reason why the operatives and operators should have cooperated happily and contentedly, without having to involve public comfort, public health, and, above all, public subjection to vacillating fictitious prices.There is no public sympathy, under the circumstances, for either group.When public interests are tampered with, and inconvenience and assaulted, as in this matter, when the whole controversy should have been settled by arbitration, then public "patience ceases to be a virtue."While the public has the benefit of substitute fuels, and is in better shape to face a hard coal shut down possibly than ever before, that fact does not alter the principle involved, nor will it excuse the government for any inexcusable "hands off" policy. While such a policy was wise during the "negotiations," its continuance cannot be wise as the situation stands.Up to August 8 the anthracite field had produced $5,992,000 tons, or 1 per cent more than at the same date in 1924. We need 90,000,000 tons. The first step is to repeat the arrangement of the Pennsylvania authorities in 1922-23 for a Fair Price commission, which will block profiting at the mines.In the meantime it is essential that every precaution be taken against a strike in the soft-coal fields. And equally as essential for congress, when it convenes in December, to put a stop by timely legislation to this ever-recurring national nervousness produced by disputes in the coal fields.

REIDSVILLE'S TRAGEDY.

The news dispatches tell of a distressing accident near Reidsville,
N. C., when a Washington-Atlanta
Southern train killed the five occupants of an automobile at a grade crossing. The victims were among the most prominent people of that state. If they had been among the most obscure people the heartaches of loved ones would have been the same, and the lesson of the crossing hazard would have been the same.

In North Carolina there is a grade crossing "stop" law. It provides that all motorists shall come to full stops at all grade crossings, and then "look and listen."Whether the driver of the unfortunate Reidsville automobile did this perhaps will never be known, as not one of the party survived to tell the story. The crossing has been described as "dangerous," and the scene of former tragedies.In all reasonable probability the stop law was either violated, or the driver took an unreasonable chance in crossing the track ahead of a train known to have been approaching. In either event the tragedy accentuates the necessity for renewed caution on the part of all motorists at all railroad grade crossings.In Georgia we have a recentlyenacted law requiring a full stop at all "dangerous crossings." We believe this is a better law than one requiring a stop at all crossings, for it will emphasize, when a stop sign or signal is displayed, that the crossing in question is dangerous, and therefore will more forcibly impel obedience to the law.A general stop law, applying the same to a full-sweep crossing on a short line road with only two trains a day, as to a dangerous crossing on a main trunk line with perhaps one hundred trains a day, undoubtedly invites careless general enforcement, and an occasional tragedy, such as that at Reidsville, results.It is hoped the Georgia law may be rigidly enforced through the un-standing determination of motorists to cooperate. By no other means can it be enforced. The public must cooperate if the full usefulness of the law, in saving the lives and limbs of motorists, shall result.It is unreasonable to expect a 100 per cent elimination of grade-crossing accidents until grade crossings are eliminated 100 per cent. Progress is being rapidly made in this respect and yet it will be many years before all crossings are eliminated.In the meantime the problem is up to the people who drive automobiles. It cannot reasonably be expected that trains on the rails shall stop at every crossing. They should be compelled to give every warning practicable of their approach, and they should be made to cooperate in the immediate elimination of particularly hazardous crossings. Outside of this the public must realize and assume its own responsibility with a full knowledge of the law and the lurking hazards at all grade crossings.

SEPTEMBER FIRST.

This is the first day of fall, in the retail trading sense. When the "r" appears in the spelling of the month the summer season is over. The rule is as universally familiar as is the old rhyme "thirty days hath September," etc.And this September first finds Atlanta, and all the other trading centers in the southeast, in a most pleasing position, with stocks ample and up-to-date, and with prospects bright for an unusual, if not, indeed, a phenomenal season.The crops of the state have on the whole been excellent, with the exception of the comparatively small drouth area. And in the drouth counties there is no occasion for gloom or depression, as full and resourceful cooperation is expected and promised in providing heavy plantings in grain and winter cover crops, thereby also providing most excellent foundations for 1926.In southeast, southwest, middle and in many sections of north Georgia this year's production has on the whole been all that could have been hoped for, with fair returns as a rule to the farmers.The reason for this is the fact that the state is becoming annually better balanced in farm operations.
Peaches, pecans, potatoes, apples, melons, vegetables, and so on, have taken their respective places in the national markets, and while cotton has remained, and will, the major money crop, it is by no means the only money crop.Manufacturers and jobbers report increased business throughout the southeastern states. Daily interviews with sales managers and with executives, appearing in The Constitution serve to convince the public that September's dawn never found Georgia and the southeast in sounder or more hopeful conditions economically.Thanksgiving for the fields that have so amply answered the world's prayer for its daily bread.It's wonderful how California tightens its earthquake belt and gets down and up to business.The trouble about the apple crop is that the law prohibits one from smacking one's lips over a gallon of cider.A home-poet has written a lament for the late legislature, but his verse suggests the old sentiment—
"We would not call thee back again.""This fine crop-year," says a southwest Georgia writer, "we'll be able to live at home and keep the money moving towards the home banks."Some few statesmen are born and others acquire the reputation by getting themselves elected to congress.

This Citizen Was Mad.

The following item from a Mississippi paper tells of a citizen whose patience had been sorely tried:
"Ordinarily, the owner of a lot of land on which there is good water for baptizing is perfectly willing for church folks to use it for that purpose. But the Jackson, Miss., Daily News clips from the advertising columns of a north Mississippi paper the following illustration of a citizen's state of mind following the abuse of a privilege: 'Positively no more baptizing will be permitted in my pasture. Twice in the last two months my gate has been left open by Christian people, and I can't waste time chasing cattle all over the country just to get them back again.' In other words, as the Jackson paper states the case, 'The gate is no longer ajar. Saved sinners will have to be soaked elsewhere.'"Resignation.
Great walls of silence
Sift you out.
My heart's door is closed.
No more is love crying
All its passion to unfold.All is quiet—
The calm that follows storm.
I sit within these locked doors
And wonder not
That love is dead.

Just in Passing

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

The recent legislature passed a bill, creating four new trustees of the State University, to be elected by the alumni.
It was a good bill, for the Lord knows if the alumni don't take a keen interest in the university, and in all the other institutions of the university system, they will continue to run about a half-century behind the demands of the day in so far as equipment and facilities go.The legislators stand around and talk loudest about Georgia's crying need for a modern expansion program for all of her institutions, educational and otherwise, and yet when the voting time comes around, during one of the sessions, many of them are either forgetful, off the job, or undergoing an acute case of change of heart, or something of the sort.At any rate, "let George do it," is an appealing conscience balancing hot July-August weather, and especially during a drouth, so the legislature just "passed the buck" to the alumni.And the placing of a voting responsibility in the hands of the old Georgia men for the naming of four trustees will have its compensation.The Georgia alumni showed their mettle if they are made out of three or four years ago when they raised a million-dollar endowment—and the great new, recently dedicated memorial building stands as one of the monuments of their love, and of their financial acumen and resourcefulness.At any rate, getting back to the trustees to be chosen by the alumni, who are even now voting I believe—There are eight nominees for the four places to be filled. The election is being held under the auspices of the Alumni society. Each alumnus is to check against four of the eight names on the ballot.The nominee receiving the largest number of votes will be commissioned by the governor of the state for the full usual term of eight years; the nominee receiving the second highest vote will have a six-year term; etc.The eight nominees are:
W. D. Anderson, '91, Macon, Ga.,
Wm. H. Barrett, '93, Augusta, Ga.,
Frank D. Foley, '99, Columbus, Ga.,
Harry Hodgson, '93, Athens, Ga., A. R. Lawton, Sr., '77, Savannah, Ga.E. W. Mize, '11, Atlanta, Ga., Samuel H. Sibley, '92, Marietta, Ga., Marion Smith, '03, Atlanta, Ga.,
What a galaxy of outstanding Georgians!There is not one of the eight who would not be of inestimable service to the state.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

New "Furor Teutonicus."

The traveler in Germany must be somewhat bewildered and perhaps not a little embarrassed these days by the latest "Furor Teutonicus" which takes the form of nude dancing and nude athletics. Like the ancient Hellenes, the blond Nordics are now their picnic races, their seashore dances and their athletic performances along the babbling woodland brooks the natural attire that was once the favorite of the Acropolis, the arena and in the market place of Sparta.Everywhere one comes upon these hyper-free moderns who have discarded the old prudish and allegorical
"primitivity." "Back to Nature and Beauty" or "Back to Strength and Beauty." As is psychologically the interest in Germany, also these innovations are carried out in music formation. The fashionable Borkum seashore resort and the banks of the Oder and the Spree are simply crowded with these blue-eyed male and female nudists. Germany has thrown itself so wholeheartedly into sport and athletic exercises since the war that it looks as if that were the sole reason for the popularity of the nudist movement. But were Holland to republican "tomorrow, the Orange family would still be the best loved and respected in that country.

Price of Empire.

The Baldwin government is pushing the Singapore naval base project with all its energy. Hundreds of millions are to be expended, while millions of human beings in Britain are idle, unemployed and the country faces a new labor crisis in the near future. Export trade has fallen off alarmingly and the leaders are unanimous in declaring that not even after the Napoleonic wars did Britain pass through so severe a financial straits. It is to be sufficient money in the coffers for great military projects. The Singapore base is to be the great bulwark of the Pacific. It is to be a constant reminder to other ambitious land grabbers that the lion is watching from afar and will leap to the attack the moment he is challenged. Some day the matter of Sumatra will play an important role.

HEALTH TALKS

BILLINGS COMPLAINT IN SCHOOL.

Here is an interesting query signed by a high school girl and written on stationery bearing the high school legend:"My Dear Doctor Brady:
We have a science club in our high school which meets weekly. The last part of the weekly program is devoted to a forum. Recently the subject of lamps used by physicians was discussed, and this led to the question of regular and irregular physicians. Mr. Brady, our chemistry teacher, condemned irregular leaders such as (a brand of short cut fad healers) from the standpoint of their educational qualifications and the question of their ethics. He said that the practice. This resulted in much objection on the part of some of the members of the class, who had received monthly announcements from local practitioners of the pseudoscientific system of healing telling of their remarkable successes in healing and some of the pupils knew of cases that had been healed by them.
The chemistry teacher said that many quack healers could have been written up and signed by actual persons for a consideration of three dollars, more or less. He said that the recovery in some cases would be natural enough if there were nothing really wrong in the first place, an aspect of the question which he referred to as psychology teacher. He said that recovery occurs in many cases because of nature's work alone, as regular or irregular healers are frank to admit, but irregulars claim the credit for such recoveries occurring under their treatment. The teacher finally said that we had better let the question rest with our own family physicians or we might write to them. Therefore I ask if you will kindly take the time to tell us as a club the viewpoint of intelligent people should take on this matter."("Very truly yours," (Secretary Science Club.)Now that school is open we can answer the request calmly and without fear of successful malediction.First must say that the letter is extremely well written. I can't find a single flaw in it. This is really extraordinary, in a letter from a school pupil or teacher. Some of the letters I have received from high school pupils are almost incredibly erroneous even in the fundamentals of spelling and punctuation, and it is really exceptional to receive a correctly written letter from a high school pupil. I am glad to hear that you are an assigned letter, I mean, and not one written for the express purpose of displaying letter writing ability. They teach a lot of folderl in the English course in high schools these days, but remarkably little English. The stints of "homework" generally laid out in the English classes are mainly mere tricks to get the pupils to do their homework.The chemistry teacher's observations about regular and irregular healers were correct. No one purposely has any scientific knowledge which could hold any other view. The "objection" of some of the pupils was characteristic of the educational unfitness of the youth of the day; in fact, it is typical of all "showers" in high schools where the abuse prevails.The chemistry teacher's observa-

CHIEF RESTORES CONVICTED GUARD

Swampscott, Mass., August 31.—Disapproving the findings of a summary court-martial, Captain Adolphus Andrews, commander of the Mayflower, late today ordered Corporal Andrew Chantos, of Cleveland, one of the marines charged with going to sleep on guard duty, restored to duty.

Previously Captain Andrews, who is in command of the marine detachment, approved a court-martial sentence of thirty days' confinement and $21 loss of pay returned against Private Clarence Key, of Centerville, Texas, the other marine tried. After reading the two reports reviewing the evidence presented him, Captain Andrews decided to give Chantos the benefit of the doubt on the ground that it had not been proven conclusively that he had left his post without being properly relieved.

Captain Andrews said it had been shown that Key was lying down at his post and had covered himself up with his overcoat. No attempt was made, he said, to prove that the marine was asleep.

The two marines were relieved of their posts after an early morning inspection conducted last week by Lieutenant J. Wright, attached to the Mayflower.

7 MEN ARRESTED ON MURDER COUNT

act in that way. He was accompanied by Sheriff Carey Rittick, of Monroe county; Deputy Sheriff Charles Robert, formerly a Bibb county deputy, who was sworn in here this morning as a special deputy, and three of the Jones county deputies.

Did Not Resist. One by one the accused men were gathered in, not one of them offering the slightest resistance.

The sheriff stated that he would separate the prisoners as quickly as possible, sending some to other counties, cutting off communication with each other. In Bibb county jail tonight, he said.

Feeling still running high here, but Jones county people say that they will not permit mob violence. They declared that they would let the law take its course.

New information that came to the surface today strengthened the theory of some people, that the slain officers were lured into the death trap and that they did not ever reach the still where they were supposed to have been going.

The inner workings of a powerful organization of moonshiners and rum runners will be revealed through the arrest and investigation of the indicted men, which may lead into high places before it ends.

Although handicapped by a different leader every day, the investigators, all residents of Jones and adjoining counties, have by their very numbers and grim determination, unearthed considerable information that appears authentic.

Powerful Organization. Evidence before the coroner's jury Monday indicated a system of intimidation employed by whisky interests in the county that marks them as confident of the power of their organization to resist all ordinary efforts at dislodgment. Little more than a month ago Joe S. Grubb, county policeman, was killed in a pitched battle at a still site. His companion officer, Jim Green, was in the thick of the battle but escaped unhurt.

Malone succeeded Grubb and Sunday afternoon they buried him in the same churchyard, near Monticello, where Grubb's body lies.

After engaging in a second shooting contest with moonshiners, Jim Green resigned two weeks ago. Tucker had been appointed to serve in his place, and immediately after taking the post had received warning that his next raid would be his last.

G. E. Rape, sworn in by the county commissioners as acting county policeman, and who last Saturday received two threats of death Sunday, and forthwith announced he is through with any official action.

Several threats have been received by Sheriff Middleton, it is said. No "notice" has been served as yet on Deputy Griffin.

GEORGE REMUS SCOFFS AT SUIT OF WIFE

thorities probably will have served him with papers in the divorce suit—then the introduction of the statement may read differently.

Reports that Mrs. Remus already is in possession of the reputed great wealth her prisoner-husband amassed before his arrest and conviction, could not be verified. They were persistent, however, and many persons gave full credence to them, while others were skeptical.

Scene in Warden's Office. Prison gossip was to the effect that Mrs. Remus visited her husband for the last time Monday a week ago, and that the warden's office was the scene of the family row, which broke up when she stalked out of the prison, declaring "I don't care if he never gets out, I'll never come to see him again."

This was the trip on which she is alleged to have come to Atlanta to discuss raising a $50,000 bond which St. Louis authorities have asked in a prohibition case against Remus. A threat to sue for divorce is alleged to have been made at this time, but reports of the family split could not be verified then, and it is believed that the trouble had blown over until the filing of the suit Monday widened the rift.

And now Remus will be liberated only to be taken into custody for Dayton, Ohio, authorities to serve a sentence of a year-and-a-day, which was given him at the same time he drew his federal prison sentence.

May Escape Sentence. Members of the so-called Remus gang, who have finished their sentences, took out habeas corpus proceedings, sued and won, a decision which entitled them to serve the sentences concurrently. This prevented them from having to serve time at Dayton. Remus is expected to proceed along the same line and plead the former ruling as a precedent for his case.

A United States deputy marshal from St. Louis will ask that Remus be held under $50,000 bond to appear for trial there September 21, on charges of violation of the United States anti-liquor laws.

If Mrs. Remus is in earnest in her claims that her husband has been cruel and threatened her and pushes her petition for divorce; if she has the family purse and controls the key, as is reported, and declines to make bonds for her accused husband, he may be kept in jail pending hearings.

Mrs. Remus asked for and obtained an injunction to prevent Remus from "visiting or molesting her in any other way." She asks that her maiden name, Imogene B. Holmes, be restored and the custody of 17-year-old daughter, Ruth Remus, adopted by Remus after their marriage June 25, 1920.

Unverified reports Monday night were that Mrs. Remus has advised Remus to agree to deportation to Germany.

M. A. Copenhaver, head of the immigration office here, stated Monday that Chicago authorities have not yet completed their investigations concerning the citizenship of Remus, but that no record of the naturalization of his father has yet been found by officials working on the case. The official said, however, that his department would take no action toward deporting the prisoner as long as charges are pending against him or as long as prison terms are yet unexpired.

DIVORCE SUIT FILED BY MRS. GEORGE REMUS.

Cincinnati, August 31.—(AP)—Mrs. Imogene Remus today filed suit for divorce and alimony from George Remus, former Cincinnati bootlegger, who will be released from the penitentiary at Atlanta Wednesday morning at the expiration of his sentence of two years for violation of the national prohibition law.

Mrs. Remus charges that her husband has been convicted of a penal offense, that he has been cruel to her, and threatened her. She alleges that the last incident of cruelty occurred in the Atlanta penitentiary a week ago when he threatened to strike her and told her to sue for divorce. She asked for and got an injunction to prevent Remus from calling on her and from injuring her in any way.

Mrs. Remus also asked for the custody of her child, Ruth Remus, 17, adopted by Remus after their marriage on June 25, 1920. She said they have no children of their own. She also asked that her maiden name, Imogene B. Holmes, be restored. Mrs. Remus was a frequent visitor to the jail where Remus was confined since his conviction and sentence in Cincinnati. She maintained a temporary residence at Atlanta, Ga.

SHIP BOARD MEMBER REFUSES TO RESIGN

ble, but whose actions it can not direct or control."

Can't Permit Implication. Concluding his letter, Haney said "under these circumstances, Mr. President, for me to comply with your request that I resign would carry an implication which I cannot permit."

The reply of Haney is regarded here as one of the most outspoken communications to a president that has come to public attention in a long while.

It forecasts a show-down on the question of the extent of Palmer's authority, whom Coolidge appointed with the intention of securing centralized direction of the affairs of the government fleet. Since his appointment, Palmer has been continually at odds with the shipping board, most recently over the economy program.

The board recently protested the budget bureau's proposed cut in its appropriation. Chairman O'Connor, of the board, stating that it would mean withdrawal of several government vessels from operation, including the Leviathan. Palmer denied this.

Will Be Aired in Congress.

The whole controversy will be aired in congress, it appears certain. Before that time, Attorney General Sargent probably will be called upon to determine just how far Palmer's power with the shipping board, most recently over the economy program.

Detailing the reasons for opposition to Palmer, he said he laid before Coolidge, Haney said "First without question his ability as a naval officer, I considered him incompetent for temperament and lack of experience to discharge the duties imposed by the merchant marine act of 1920 upon the shipping board, whose agent he was."

Second, Haney said, Palmer "seemed determined not to confer with the board upon any of the questions which came within its peculiar province under the statute, which involved the board's discretion, and could not be delegated to the president of the fleet corporation."

His Third Complaint.

The commissioner set forth as his third complaint that Palmer "seemed disposed to proceed along lines independent of board action, although he was by his appointment created the board's agent."

Haney also gave additional reasons beyond these. Palmer's policy, he declared, "fails to carry out the purposes of the merchant marine act, because such policy not only is failing to establish a merchant marine sufficient to carry a major portion of our commerce, but on the contrary, our merchant marine is carrying less and less each year."

"Again, the purpose of the act to establish a military navy is being completely disregarded in that the number of vessels in use and available for such purpose is being steadily reduced, and, last, but not least, under his administration we are losing American commerce to foreign shipowners, one of the very things the act in question intended should not occur."

Did Not Misdemean Coolidge.

Haney said he "did not intend, by word or act, to lead you, directly or indirectly, Mr. President, to understand that if reappointed, I would be a party to continuing Mr. Palmer as president of the emergency fleet corporation."

He said the president knew he had voted against Palmer's reelection two weeks before they had discussed his own reappointment, and that he had vigorously opposed a resolution granting powers to the head of the fleet corporation, which the statute expressly imposed upon the board itself.

BOY TURNS BANDIT TO GET SPECIMENS OF RARE STAMPS

New York, August 31.—(AP)—Such an ardent stamp collector is 15-year-old Harry Strubing, of Brooklyn, that he turned hold-up man today in an effort to obtain some rare specimens. His intended victim, Arthur Murkacy, proprietor of a stamp store, didn't heed the boy's threatening revolver, however, but grasped his wrist and disarmed him. The revolver was not loaded.

Strubing, police said, admitted the attempted hold-up, asserting he sought only to add some stamps to his collection. He was held for juvenile delinquency.

there. No liquor was found. During the raid, the Indiana delegation filled a five-gallon bottle with whisky and held "open house" in the lobby. Everybody was invited to step up and drink, and many accepted in the presence of the officers.

A deputy sheriff from New York, whose name was not learned, defied the raiders. He sauntered into the hotel during the raid and asked one of the raiders if he had a search warrant to enter the various rooms. "Don't need any," the officer said. "We served a warrant on the hotel."

The New Yorker responded that a warrant was needed. "I've got some liquor in my room. Try and get it. I'll dare any of you to set your foot across the threshold unless you bring a search warrant for my room. That liquor is mine and is going to be used by my friends and myself."

The New Yorker is said to still have his liquor. Bob Woodside, sheriff of Allegheny County, Pa., happened into his room while raiders were searching it. He peeled off his coat and ordered the officers out. They retreated.

ANTI-BRENNAN GROUP FORMS ORGANIZATION

Chicago, August 31.—(AP)—A group of Illinois democrats who for several years have opposed domination of the party councils of the state today announced organization of the "Democracy of Illinois," with a view of "reorganization and a re-statement of the fundamentals on which our party was founded," and the intention to enlist support from the sympathetic party workers in other states.

On the organization committee are Edward F. Dunne, former governor of Illinois; Carter Harrison, former mayor of Chicago, both anti-Brennan candidates for delegate-at-large to the 1924 national convention under the McAdoo banner, and W. L. O'Connell, McAdoo manager in Illinois last year. O'Connell is chairman of the committee which includes seven other down-state leaders.

The new organization pledges to seek abolition of the two-thirds rule in future national conventions; to rid the national organization of the poison germ injected into its veins at the New York convention; to work for legislation under which the several states would define for themselves the meaning of the term "interesting liquor" in the 18th amendment and for stat. rather than federal enforcement of prohibition under such definition.

Time Payments on General Motors cars

ON August 1st General Motors announced important reductions in its time payment charges on General Motors cars—notwithstanding the fact that General Motors charges have always been the lowest.

The important thing to the purchaser is the total cost of a car. The time payment charges is a part of such total cost when the car is bought on time. These reductions therefore mean, in such instances, a substantially lowered total cost.

It is the policy of General Motors to pass on to the car purchaser economies wherever effected—in financing as well as in engineering, manufacturing or merchandising operations.

The purchase of a car out of income is a universally accepted practice. Six years ago General Motors organized the General Motors Acceptance Corporation (GMAC) to make credit available at the lowest possible cost to purchasers of General Motors cars.

The standard time price of any General Motors car is the cash delivered price, plus only the new GMAC charge.

GUNN SHOOT'S OAKMONT IN 76, THREE OVER JONES

Mackenzie Breaks Par With 71; Chick Evans Suffers Complete Reverse

amateur tournaments fell discouragingly by the wayside before the gaping traps and scowling bunkers, to say nothing of the greens that, in the language of Chick Evans, amount to "a roof." Evans was one of the old-timers to fall. He took an 87. Chicago golfers fared badly all around. Dexter Cummings, a sensation in amateur golf in the last two years, was shrouded under another 87. Ira Conner, Chicago also, took still another 87, and Dave Herron, formerly of Philadelphia, but now of Chicago, did little better with an 88.

Oakmont course stretches out like a nest of fiends—of sand, of prodigious crinkled ears that are the beds of bunkers, of enormous, grass-ridden mounds that are the large bunkers, and with a garish complexion that is afforded by fairways that are almost green, and greens that are beyond conception of the golfer who has not seen them, or dreamed of them.

Only half a dozen of the veterans came through under 90 today. The rest of the score of the players who took the amazingly elusive figure were the kids who are playing their first national tournament, or golfers of mature years who have not yet smacked the ball with sufficient celerity to warrant the limelight. Five shot 75 or better, and there were just three with cards of 76.

Mackenzie Led Field. Mackenzie, with his 71, led the field. Bob Jones, with his 73, was second, while Jess Guilford, of Woodland, who can barely count his national tournaments on his fingers, was third with a 74. Two 75's were claimed by Jess Sweetser, Sivanoy and George Von Elm, of Los Angeles, the last barometer of Bob Jones took last year to win the national amateur crown at the Merion Cricket club in Philadelphia.

Gunn had one of the three 76's while W. C. Williams, Jr., of Pittsburgh, was second with a 77. Chick Evans, of Upper Montclair, N. J., held the other pair.

Cards of 77 were not plentiful, and consider well that the par of this Oakmont course is 72. Seventy-eight numbers two, and then the 79's and 80's sprinkled the long lists fairly well.

The 77's were Keefe Carter, St. Louis, who qualified with Jones; Fred Knight, of White Marsh; Jimmy Manion, of St. Louis, and Art Yates, of Rochester. The 78's were turned in for R. L. Wintinger, Steubenville, Ohio, and Ellsworth Augustus, Cleveland.

Shooting 79 were Francis Olinet, Woodland; Robert Lyne, Oakmont; Russell Martin, Flossmoor; D. Clarke Corkran, Huntington; Harrison Johnston, of St. Paul, and Ted Foster, Jacksonville, finalist in the southern tourney.

The 80's included G. W. Hoffman, Alabama; Donald Carick, Seneca; John F. Daly, Jr., Rochester; Charles Wolff, Sunset Hill; Harold Weber, Inverness; John W. Hughes, Omaha; Densmore Shute, Huntington; and Freddie Wright, of Alabama.

Veterans Flopped. Pick the veterans in that crowd and they can be counted without adding machines. Now, the veterans who fell, almost beyond redemption, are many. H. C. Fowles, 24, of Pittsburgh, shot an 81, much below his regular performance. So did Max Marston, Huntington Valley, Al Ulmer, of Jacksonville, did an 82, only fair; Rudy Knepper, of Oswestie, shot 84 as his best, and Robert A. Gardner had to be content with an 84. Chicago's flop has already been recorded.

Mackenzie, to lead the field, went one over par on his first nine, but recovered by shooting a 33, two under par, on the second, with some of the most remarkable golf that has been shot here, with the exception of Bob Jones' hair-raising 67 Saturday.

Six birdies raised the score card of Mackenzie and two of them came in the seventeenth and eighteenth greens, where he canned his third in each instance. On the second, his first birdie hole, Mackenzie holed his 5-foot putt. On No. 4 he barely missed an eagle by blowing a six-foot putt after getting home in two. He sank his second putt for a birdie and then smacked another birdie on the fifth.

On No. 12, hitting 421 yards of tough golf shooting, Mackenzie holed a ten-foot putt for a birdie four, and then shot par until he came into seven. There he almost drove the green on this 302-yard hole and sank his first putt. The canning of a 10-shots, stopped short and hit the ball again he fell into his 85. His drives were off the line and into sand half the time after the sixth and his putts weren't sinking as they should.

He recovered on the home stretch but it was too late and pars couldn't make up for fives, sixes and a seven that had gone before.

SHORTER COLLEGE PLANS OPENING

Constitution Bureau.
 Rome, Ga., August 31.—(Special.) Shorter college will begin the 53d annual session on Wednesday, September 16. From the present outlook enrollment of the students will be the largest in the history of the institution.
 Residence halls will be taxed to accommodate boarding students, who will represent a number of states. Over 40 day students from Rome will attend.
 Faculty members, several of whom are studying in Europe at American universities, will return on September 15. Freshmen will be the first students to arrive; upper classes will return on Wednesday or Thursday and the remainder of the week will be taken up with registration of students and arrangements of schedules.
 Extensive interior improvements have been made this summer in both residence and academic buildings.

No Water Famine.
 Rome, Ga., August 31.—(Special.) There is absolutely no danger to the water supply of Rome, says S. S. King, city manager. "As long as there is water in the Oostanaula river, Rome's water supply will be all right," he stated. "If it would become necessary for the power companies to discontinue furnishing power to the city to pump water, we have our steam plant to use in that emergency," he continued.
 Mr. King explained that the lock and dam below Rome kept the water backed up to a uniform depth above Rome, and that there was no danger of the water getting lower than the pumps' intake pipe.
 The streams in and around Rome, however, are lower than they have been in the history of the people living here.
 The Etowah river, above Rome, at Freeman's ferry is so low that the people are fording the river at the

Atlanta's Gangplank to France and England
The French Line Service
 —As dependable as a Railroad Express!
 —As luxurious as the best hotel!
 —As comfortable as your own home!

THERE'S a path that is made of the crest of the wave . . . the glimmer of starlight . . . the brilliance of the sun. It is the carefully charted sea path of the French Line—the lane that leads to all the corners of the world! To the Paris of spires and staccato street cries . . . To the Riviera with its sophistication and its simplicity . . . To a golden Africa of mysticism and macadam highways.
 You sail away on an aristocrat of the sea—The Paris or The France. A de Luxe French Liner . . . with a passenger list that reads like the membership of an exclusive club. With luxurious decorations and innumerable conveniences.
 You land at Havre . . . the port of Paris. The boat moors to the dock. No bobbing to shore in tenders. A special boat train waiting. Three hours and . . . Paris. Overnight . . . the Riviera. And a day . . . North Africa.
 Such are the winding trails that lie before you—the other end of "the longest gangplank in the world!"

AMUSEMENTS

"BEGGAR ON HORSEBACK"
 (At the Rialto.)
 Atlanta picture-goers who have been crying for a new, something that gets away from the usual motion picture formula, something with a little emotion and a flock of laughs, have nothing more to desire. For "BEGGAR ON HORSEBACK" has come to the Rialto theater and will be there all week.
 On the screen "BEGGAR ON HORSEBACK" is a production with "camera magic" in every foot of it. It hasn't a single horse or beggar in it. But it has the type of comedy in which Cruise has thus far excelled and points the way to a new field of screen entertainment.
 It has to do with the dream of a composer who reverts to a back jazz to live when he wants to write the Great Symphony. It comes down to a question of love—a girl, a rich girl, a poor girl. The dream settles the question.
 Edward Everett Horton is the composer; beautiful Esther Ralston is the poor sweetheart; George Jessel, Ethel Wales, Edwin Connelly, James Mason and Frederick Short are other big names in the cast.
 Accompanying are "The Pacemakers," which sets a keen standard for wholesome humor, Pathe News, and other numbers.

FORSYTH THEATER
PROGRAM BETTER THAN USUAL RUN
 Two very clever acts stand out in the current program of Keith's vaudeville at the Forsyth theater, and a third acceptable offering in its line aids in raising the bill above the average offered there.
 "Fay, 2 Coleys and Fay," a black face number, captures headline position easily, and Tod Watson's International Revue comes a close second. A really good burnt-cork act is as rare in this age as tidal waves in Peachtree creek during the great drouth (without intending to refer to prohibition); but the Fay-Coley combination is a refreshing variation from the usual run. Two pretty girls, some excellent singing, better dancing and original humor makes the number a real headliner. Two extremely stale jokes failed to kill the effect of the number.
 Tod Watson's revue is staged in an Hungarian gypsy atmosphere and presented a dainty dance extravagantly billed as Senorita Fernandez Area. The music is exotic, and the entire act is a departure from the stereotyped vaudeville to which Atlanta is accustomed.
 Stuart Burns, "the singing comedian," offers as good a monologue turn as that type of entertainment makes possible. His wit is dry and pointed, and his opening song is a bit of splendid comedy.
 As for the other two acts on the Betty Compson.

 (Is Big Hit Cameo.)
 Betty Compson in "New Lives for Old" is the feature attraction of the new Cameo theater. It is one of the greatest emotional romantic dramas produced this current season. "New Lives for Old" tells a stirring tale of Paris and America. The plot woven around the darling of a young woman. This part as played by Betty Compson is one of a famous drama, who sacrifice lives and reputations for the sake of her country. The time is the summer of 1918 and the world reechoes to the thunder of war, but Paris holds her sunshine place as playground of the world. Theodore Kosloff, Wallace McDonald and Sheldon Lewis are in the supporting cast.
 For the Wednesday and Thursday program the Cameo will offer a splendid cast, Lewis Stone, Florence Vidor and Lew Cody, playing in "Husbands and Lovers." Friday and Saturday Ricardo Cortez is seen in the title role and Jetta Goudal, the ravishing French beauty, is the girl in "Why Men Leave Home."

Rubini Featured.
 (At the Howard.)
 The Howard theater has in the past been classed as a picture house but now it will have to take its place first in line as a real show house. Featured this week on the program is Rubini, one of the country's best violinists, this was proven to the patrons of the Howard Monday at his first performance. His first selection being "Gypsy Airs" first played on the big new stage of the Howard, Rubini is the master of his line, Miss Virginia Futrell, "Marcheta," took the house by storm. Miss Hill and her Howard ballet were well received and Warner's orchestra—well, you know, they are good.
 The picture, while it was a very dressy affair, could not be featured on the program. "A Slave of Fashion" is a picture of a small town girl going to the big city and then dressing like the city folks and even going to the city. Beautiful Norma Shearer is the star.
 "The Half-Way Girl."
 (At the Metropolitan.)
 Imagine, if you can, a ship on fire at sea. A leopard has escaped from a cage on the deck and is driving the panic-stricken passengers into the water. One man and one woman are left aboard and when they rush to the last remaining lifeboat they find the leopard crouched in it ready to fight for possession.
 That is only one of the many remarkable thrilling episodes in "The Half-Way Girl." First National's latest feature picture, which opened last night at the Metropolitan theater for a week's play.
 Lloyd Hughes, Hobart Bosworth and Doris Kenyon are featured.

SKILLED DANCERS FEATURE PROGRAM
AT LOEW'S GRAND
 Five of the "most dancing" inclined people seen here this season appeared in George Griffin's "Brevities" the headline attraction on the vaudeville bill which opened Monday at Loew's Grand theater and there be any kind, type, style or character of dancing they omitted it is not within the ken of any of the terpsichorean authorities around these parts.
 In the "Brevities" they Spanish tap-danced, sailor hornpiped, buck and winged, heeled and toed, hop, skipped and jumped and kicked around generally for twenty or more minutes. It is a great dancing act and apparently was thoroughly enjoyed Monday.
 That sterling entertainer Trovato, the eccentric genius and wizard of the violin also is back in Atlanta on the new bill. He scored his usual big hit and kept the crowd convulsed with laughter as he imitated various whistles, grunts and groans volunteered by members of the audience.

DOCTORTOWN MAN KILLED BY FRIEND
 Doctortown, Ga., August 31.—W. Fred Lightsey, 29, is dead and A. W. Rowell, a yard foreman for a lumber concern, is being sought as his slayer, following a shooting affray last night.
 Meager details have been secured by authorities in connection with the killing but both men, it is stated, were under the influence of liquor. The two men were believed to be good friends, prior to the shooting.
 According to the information given the sheriff's office, Lightsey was at Powell's home playing a musical instrument when the latter arrived shortly before 10 o'clock last night.
 With no explanation, Rowell is said to have asked Lightsey if he would play checkers, to which the latter replied in the affirmative. Rowell is then said to have significantly stated "It's your move, then." The two men, it is said, left the house and Rowell, armed with a shot gun, is reported to have slain Lightsey. Lightsey's left ear was torn off and his head peppered with bullets.
 According to the sheriff's office, Rowell made a hasty departure in his automobile, described as a light coupe. Police in adjacent counties have been notified to be on the lookout for him. The body is now at an undertaking establishment in Jesup, five miles from here. Lightsey had relatives there. Both men came to Doctortown from Macon.

Julia Curtis, billed as "The Girl with Many Voices," was further described on the program as a "comedienne"—this latter for the enlightenment of the audience.

AUTO FATALITIES SHOW SHARP DROP

Washington, August 31.—(AP)—Automobile fatalities showed a sharp decrease in a group of 57 American cities during the four weeks ending August 15, the department of commerce reporting the total today at 368 as compared with 417 during the preceding four weeks' period ending July 15.
 From January 1 to August 15, the department's figures showed 2,878 deaths from automobile accidents in these cities, which was compared with a total of 2,885 fatalities in the period from January 1 to August 31, 1923. Comparable figures for last year were not given but the total deaths for the entire year of 1924 was 4,992, an increase from the 1923 total, which was 4,827. The aggregate population of the cities was estimated at 27,000,000.
 New Bedford, with but two deaths and none occurring during the latest four weeks' period, still holds the low record for this year among cities of 100,000 or more population. The figures have shown no fatalities for Norfolk during the last eight weeks covered in the reports, while other cities which had none during the last four weeks were Dayton, Houston, Lynn, St. Paul, San Antonio and Westbury.

New York with 58 deaths in the last four weeks, which brought its total from January 1 to 559, showed a decrease as compared with the preceding four weeks, as did Philadelphia, with 24 and 173 for the year; St. Louis with 11 and 115; Pittsburgh with 12 and 102, and Cleveland with 11 and 135.
 Chicago's total of 45 fatalities was the same as reported during the preceding four weeks, bringing its total for the year to 344. Among cities where an increase was shown were Detroit with 31 and 158 for year; Los Angeles with 17 and 139; Milwaukee with 18 and 62, and San Francisco with 8 and 63.

FOUR POINT FOUR BEER IS TERMED "FLOP" IN CANADA

Washington, August 31.—(AP)—Representative Grant M. Hudson, of Michigan, chairman of the house committee on the alcoholic liquor traffic in the last congress, declares after visiting more than 20 of the larger cities and towns of Ontario that the "4.4 proof spirit beer" of that province "is recognized as a failure by both wets and dries in Canada."
 "Public officials, professional and business and wet and dry parties with almost one accord," the statement said, "declared 4.4 does not satisfy those who wanted a strong alcoholic liquor. They call it 'four proof spirit beer.' It does not reduce the number of illicit sellers. In some places it does not wear the moderate or habitual drinkers of hard liquor to 4.4."

Lap Dog Thwarts Plan of Champion Stowaway Eckhard

New York, August 30.—For the fifteenth time Herbert Eckhard, 22 years old, strong claimant for the title of world's greatest stowaway, has failed to get into the United States. He might have succeeded but for the pet dog of a New York society girl. Eckhard was hiding snugly beneath the tarpaulin of a lifeboat aboard the steamer Columbus as it neared New York Sunday when the inquisitive pup yanked the cover off, exposing him.
 He will be deported.

Quinine Is Not the Best Remedy for Malaria Now

Chemists Extract Cinchona Or Peruvian Bark Salts Without Quinine RESULTS EVEN BETTER; NO BAD AFTER-EFFECTS
 People suffering periodically from malaria, chills, fevers, etc., will be glad to know that they can now get all the beneficial effect of quinine with the quinine left out.
 A. M. Kloczewski, famous Polish chemist, discovered the nasty, nauseating, upsetting quinine can be extracted out and from the other derivative salts of Cinchona or Peruvian bark can be secured all the results formerly to be obtained only by taking Quinine.
 Atlanta druggists are featuring this new malarial, fever, chill and grippie tonic, which is called Elixir Babek. Doctors assert results are surer, quicker and better in every respect. It is predicted that soon the use of quinine in large doses for such troubles will cease. A regular bottle of Elixir Babek costs only a few cents. If your druggist hasn't Elixir Babek yet, ask him to secure a bottle for you from his jobber—or write and inclose 5c to Kloczewski & Co., Chemists, Washington, D. C.—(adv.)

Chopin Recital by Hugh Hodgson Outstanding Event of Today

An affair appealing to the musical, cultural and social element of Atlanta will be the recital this evening presented by Hugh Hodgson, foremost southern pianist, who will render a complete program of Chopin selections, the event being sponsored by the Atlanta Woman's club. This beautiful affair will take place on the spacious terrace of "Wingfield," the handsome home of former Governor and Mrs. John Marshall Slaton. With a full late summer moon flooding the scene against a background of brilliantly-colored flowers and foliage, this occasion will prove to be one of inspiration and perfect artistry.

Ushering in this first day of the autumn season are a number of delightful social affairs honoring a group of attractive visitors and early fall brides-elect. Miss Mary Estes, of Gainesville, Ga., will be honor guest in the theater party at which Miss Margaret Marbert will be entertained. Mrs. Samuel Harrington, of Haiti, will be honored by her mother, Mrs. Willard Nutting, with a bridge-tee at the home of Mrs. Nutting on Piedmont avenue. Miss Geraldine White will be hostess at luncheon in compliment to Miss Ethel Woodruff, of Columbus, who is the fete guest of Miss Julia Meador.

Miss Erma Eleanor Fischer and Austin Francis Brisbane, whose marriage will be an interesting event of Wednesday, will be honor guests at the buffet supper this evening at which Mrs. J. H. Fischer will entertain at her home on Myrtle street following the wedding rehearsal.

Special Meeting Of Junior League.

There will be a special meeting of the Junior league this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at the Piedmont Driving club.

Mrs. Hunter Muse, who was elected president of the league for 1925-26, has offered her resignation for this high office and there will be election of a new president for 1925-26, and corresponding secretary, so it is very necessary for all league members to be present this afternoon.

Miss King's Guests To Be Entertained.

Miss Lottie May Audrey and Miss Gladys Audrey, both of Orlando, Fla., and Miss Edith Gibson, of Gibson, N. C., who will arrive today to be the guests of Miss Clara Belle King at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue in Druid Hills, will be honored at a number of affairs.

One of the loveliest affairs for the younger social set will be the dance at which Mr. and Mrs. Clyde King will entertain on Wednesday evening in honor of their daughter and her house guests, Misses Gibson and Audrey.

These visitors will share honors Thursday morning with Miss Mary Lee Lamm, of Pensacola, the guest of Miss Isabel Breitenbuecher, at a bridge party to be given by Miss Breitenbuecher.

Friday Miss Catherine Candler will entertain at a luncheon at Druid Hills club.

Friday afternoon Miss Jane Small will entertain a few intimate friends at a bridge-tee at her home on Myrtle street.

Miss Martha Lewis will entertain several close friends in honor of these charming guests at the Biltmore terrace Saturday afternoon. Other parties will be announced later.

Julia Sewell Given Birthday Party.

Little Miss Julia Sewell was given a birthday party on Monday afternoon by her mother, Mrs. Frank Sewell, at her home on Columbia avenue.

During the afternoon many games were played and much little merriment was presented with a novelty favor.

Miss Thomas Will Be Honor Guest.

Mrs. A. G. Ganslow, of 111 Josephine street, will give a miscellaneous shower, honoring Miss Elfrida Thomas, on Tuesday evening, September 1, at 8 o'clock. The bride-elect will give a trousseau tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Ledbetter, 58 Seminole avenue, Thursday, September 2, from 3 to 8 o'clock. The Misses Frances Nicholson and Louise Brooks will preside at the punch bowl.

On Friday evening, after rehearsal, the wedding party and friends of the bride-elect and groom-to-be, will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Markel, of 937 East North avenue. The wedding will take place at St. Philip's cathedral Saturday, September 4, at 7 p. m., when Miss Thomas will become the bride of Dr. W. B. Felger.

Baptist Woman's League Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Woman's League of the Second Baptist church will be held Sunday, September 5, at 3:30 in the afternoon. A very interesting program has been arranged. Reports covering the fiscal year will be presented by the various chairmen.

Mrs. Frederic J. Paxton is president of the league and this is the first meeting since June.

Alliance Francaise To Hold Meeting.

A special meeting of the Alliance Francaise will be held Thursday, September 2, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Loridans, 16 East Fifteenth street, at 3:30 p. m. Plans for the coming year, which begins in September, will be made by Mr. and Mrs. Loridans and September 16 on the Berengaria for an extended trip to Europe and the Orient, not returning to Atlanta until January.

A feature of the meeting will be a talk by Mrs. J. M. Slaton on her recent trip to Egypt, the Holy Land and the Mediterranean. All members cordially invited.

Miss Babb Gives Bridge-Tea.

Miss Mary Vela Estes, of Gainesville, who is the guest of Miss Katherine Babb, was honored Saturday afternoon at a bridge-tee given by Miss Babb.

She was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Carl B. Babb. Tea was served at the individual tables. The prizes were hand-painted French novelties.

Former Atlantans Return From Europe.

Mrs. Leigh C. Palmer, wife of the head of the Montgomery Fibre corporation, and their daughter, Miss Laura Palmer, formerly of Atlanta, returned earlier in the week from Southampton, L. Reason It Out!

Is it not logical that a house conducting a strictly cash business can and does sell the same merchandise at a considerably lower price than a house burdened with the high expense necessary to a "charge account" type of business?

During the month of August over 400 men and women have found out for themselves that our prices are lower.

A visit to this store will convince you.

BLINDING HEADACHES LIVER OUT OF ORDER

"For about 20 years," says Mr. P. A. Walker, a well-known resident of Newburg, Kentucky, "one of our home remedies has been Black-Draught, the old reliable. We have been married 51 years, and in all that time I have never found a liver medicine that gave the satisfaction that Black-Draught has given."

"I use it for colds, biliousness, sour stomach and indigestion. I was subject to headaches when my liver would get out of order."

"I would have blinding headaches and couldn't stoop about my work—just couldn't go. I used Black-Draught and it relieved me."

"About eight years ago my wife got down with liver and stomach trouble. We tried for a week to help her, but she didn't get any better."

"One day I said to the doctor, 'I believe I will try Black-Draught for her. It helped my liver.' He said that I might try it and to follow directions, which I did."

"Before she took Black-Draught she suffered pain in the lower part of her body, and soreness, dizziness in her head, and just wasn't able to sit up. She was nauseated and couldn't eat or rest."

"She began taking Black-Draught and in two days she was greatly improved, and in a week she was up."

"I didn't think it possible for anyone to improve so fast as she did. She has taken Black-Draught ever since and it keeps her up and going."

Made from selected medicinal roots and herbs, and containing no dangerous mineral drugs, Thedford's Black-Draught is nature's own remedy for indigestion and constipation, due to a torpid liver. Sold everywhere. JA-11

This new way, that scientifically solves woman's oldest hygienic problem, will end it

THERE is now a way in personal hygiene that is safe and sure. That warrants immodesty under any and all conditions.

The old-time sanitary pad has been supplanted . . . scientifically.

Wear your lightest silks, your daintiest frocks without a second thought. Dance, motor, accept social invitations, any day, every day. Live your life unhandicapped.

The name is Kotex. It's made of cellulose, the war's great absorbent.

It absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture—5 times that of the ordinary cotton pad!

It is as easily disposed of as a piece of tissue—ending the old embarrassment of disposal.

It is deodorized. And that prevents danger of offense.

It's at every drug store, every department store. You ask for it, without hesitancy, under its trade name of "Kotex."

8 in 10 women of the better classes have adopted it. Doctors urge it. Hygienic authorities employ it.

It will mean much to you . . . will make a great difference in your life. Going on with old ways is a folly.

HE CAN'T BEGIN TOO YOUNG TO LEARN THE ART OF DRESSING CORRECTLY

As a matter of fact it isn't necessary these days to teach boys much about how to dress. Style has become such an important factor in boys' clothing that every youngster knows what's new and he insists on getting it.

When you bring your son here you will find that he will recognize our clothes as the last word in style. You will also be interested in the fact that most of them have been treated with the "Cravenette" Process which doubles their durability and makes them show-proof.

We've all the furnishings and accessories he needs, too.

Matheson-Norris Wedding To Be Event Thursday in Hartwell

Interest throughout the south centers in the announcement of the wedding plans of Miss Mary Matheson, of Hartwell, to James Goodrum Norris, of Newnan and Atlanta. The marriage will take place at the First Baptist church in Hartwell on Thursday evening, September 3, at 8:30, with Rev. Julius D. Matheson, of Coburn, Va., brother of the bride, officiating. Miss Ida Holloway, of Atlanta, will play the nuptial music and Miss Elizabeth Teasley, of Hartwell, will sing.

The bride's two sisters, Mrs. J. L. Anderson, of Greenville, S. C., and Mrs. Arthur Richardson, of Hartwell, will be matrons of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Phoebe Durden, of Newnan; Miss Mary Goodrum, of Newnan; and Miss Nella Jameson, of Atlanta. The bride will be given away by her brother, R. Eugene Matheson, and the groom's best man will be his uncle, James J. Goodrum, Jr., of Atlanta. The groomsmen will include Alonza Norris, of Newnan; Peter Murphy, of Newnan; and Adrian Ford, of Atlanta. The ushers are Thomas L. Matheson, of Hartwell; Wilson Lanier, of Athens; and Dr. Pope Huguley, of Atlanta. The wedding will be followed by a brilliant reception at the home of the bride's mother. After their return from a wedding trip through the north and east the young couple will be at home to their friends in Newnan and will be the recipients of many social attentions.

Miss Matheson is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Julia Thornton Matheson and the late Julius D. Matheson, who was one of the leading citizens of Hartwell and Hart county. Her maternal grandfather and grandmother were also prominent in the early development of Hartwell. Miss Matheson attended Agnes Scott for one year, later graduating from Shorter college. She has often visited in Atlanta, where she was the guest of her cousins, Mrs. Clifford Walker and Miss Nella Jameson.

Mr. Norris is the oldest son of Mrs. Ella Goodrum Norris and the late Alonza M. Norris and a grandson of Captain James J. Goodrum, of Newnan. Mr. Norris attended the University of Georgia, where he was a member of the Chi Phi fraternity. Since that time he has been with the bond department of The Trust Company of Georgia.

Many interesting parties are being given for the lovely bride-elect, whose presence at the affairs of the younger set will be a keen loss when her wedding takes her to another city to make her home. WANTED A BOY;
GIRL BABY BORN;
GOES ON RAMPAGE

The police charge Kafel opened the jet of a gas stove in an attempt to asphyxiate his family, and when this proved unsuccessful, drove all the occupants of the house into the street.

MILNER HITS BROWN
IN SHARP RETORT

Some inside politics of the house during the recent session of the general assembly is revealed in a reply Monday by Representative J. Hermon Milner, of Dodge county, to the statement of J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture, made last week.

Mr. Milner tells of a "consultation" between his forces and Speaker W. Cecil Neill, in which the alternative of a "cute little filibuster" was offered if the rules committee of the house failed to place it on the calendar, which resulted in the "consultation" with the speaker. After this consultation, Mr. Milner said, "the rules committee, selected, chosen, possibly sworn, as friends of the Brown dynasty, heard a plea that afternoon as it had never heard before."

The net result was that the bill was placed on the calendar as a special order, and was passed by the house.

Mr. Milner then traces the fate of the bill in the senate, telling of an ultimatum that was served on the senate that unless the distillation bill was placed on the calendar it would not be within the bounds of possibility that senate measures would have been passed.

The Dodge constitution then says the bill was placed on the senate calendar by an overwhelming vote. "The house assumed the senate acted in good faith," he wrote and "when the senate heard the clarion call of its master. The bill was defeated and King John still reigns."

"Lacking six votes in Georgia's House of Lords, the taxpayers for the next two years will pay $270,000 for an absolutely useless service."

King John will rule his subjects, the oil inspectors whose chief service to the war chest of their chief, and line up the faithful on election day."

Mr. Milner pays great tribute to his lieutenants in the fight by saying "It cannot be charged that Wilhoit, of Warren, Mann of Glynn, Humphrey of Emanuel, New of Laurens, Baughin of Marion, Phipps of Brann, and Lanier of Columbia, who were in the thick of battle, were either disgruntled or disappointed."

"And his majesty need not worry about the 'tolling farmers of Georgia.' Although his department spends each year approximately $480,000 of the people's money, if it were wiped out tomorrow, the average farmer would not be affected in the slightest, and probably would be ten years in getting the news unless he read about it in the newspapers or detected the decrease in his taxes."

"It is regrettable that Mr. Brown is so uncertain about his future political position, that he would not welcome advice from me, I most respectfully suggest that if he declines to run again, he will deprive some of us of a pleasure, to which we have been looking forward with a great deal of anticipatory satisfaction—that of looking after him in the next primary. And he'll run. History records very few kings who abdicate voluntarily."

"By the way, since the state did not pay the expenses of the tour in behalf of H. B. 21, who did?"

HELPED THROUGH CHANGE OF LIFE

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during this Critical Time

Baltimore, Md.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help me through my change of life and for a broken down system. I had been complaining a long time and dragging along had tried other medicines which did not help me much. I read in the newspapers of the Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I did not stop with one bottle, but took it through the whole critical time and am now practically a well woman. I have two daughters whose health was very bad before they married and I was worried about them. I got the Vegetable Compound for them and it helped them, and after they married it also helped them in bearing their babies. This is a great and good medicine for all complaints of women, and I recommend it to all."—Mrs. L. GINGRICH, 1376 N. Gilmer St., Baltimore, Maryland.

The Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for women of middle age. Let it relieve you of nervousness, that feeling of strain and those annoying hot flashes so common at this time.

AGNES SCOTT OPENING
SET FOR SEPTEMBER 9

Agnes Scott college will open on September 9, according to announcement Monday by school authorities.

It was reported that shortage of water in Decatur might cause postponement of opening, but there has been no foundation for this rumor, officials asserted. Decatur is able to furnish all water necessary for ordinary uses of the college, they said.

For the running of the new gymnasium, which will require an enormous amount of water, the college has reopened its 850-foot artesian well.

The fullest capacity of the college will be taxed for the opening, as there have been hundreds of applicants in excess of those who can be accommodated, it is said. Only 550 boarders and 150 day students can be provided for with present buildings. As funds are secured and new buildings erected, the capacity will be enlarged to 1,000 students, as was provided in the new gymnasium-auditorium unit, to be opened next week.

THE GUMPS—A FRIEND IN NEED

THE PEARL HEADED PIN

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Colonel Hallett and his wife, Margaret, are discussing the possibility of refurnishing their London home, which is being remodeled. The conversation changes, and Mrs. Hallett is reminded of the past. Twenty years before she had been married to Henry Ledway, who died in a railroad wreck after being accused, along with his partner, John Selkirk, of murdering a business rival. Selkirk had been tried and sentenced to twenty years. Mrs. Hallett tells her husband the morning paper announces Selkirk's release from prison.

"Dearest Margaret," it ran. "Let neither of us pretend anything to the other. What we both heard in court this afternoon, neither of us can ignore. For twenty-four hours I am going to stay at the club. During that time I shall think pretty steadily of the last twenty years which to me have been incredibly happy. I think that I shall then be able to listen with that sympathy which is your right to any explanation you care to give to me—George."

"P. S.: I have told Harcourt that I have had to run down to see Lord Missenden on urgent business. I leave it to you as to whether you tell Joan the same."

She motioned Harcourt into the study—whether Ray had already strolled—and put one or two pertinent questions as to the time of Colonel Hallett's departure. She did not listen to the man's replies. Her mind was on the letter in her hand.

She understood perfectly the mood in which George's letter had been written. It was a foible of his—when anything in the house annoyed him he would leave the room and return later. It was one of the many little innocent dishonesties that she loved. By his transparent device he could say with truth that he had never uttered a harsh word to her in the whole of their married life. George could not trust himself to speak to her. And instead of a couple of minutes, he had allowed himself twenty-four hours in which, as he had often expressed it, to cool off!

She roused herself and, with a word of excuse to Ray, embarked on a complicated order to Harcourt concerning the suspended activities at Cordwains House. Her instructions involved telephoning to three different firms and getting through to the person in charge each case, and she soon gathered from Ray's studied detachment that he was surprised at her interference in a routine matter which had probably already been attended to by March, Limited.

The telephone was in his room and, after having seen Harcourt installed at it and closed the door carefully upon him, Mrs. Hallett led Ray across the hall into the drawing room. She had timed it well. As Ray closed the drawing room door, a moment later, the sound of her voice in her own sanctum. This sitting room of Joan's was originally intended as a back drawing room and was separated by folding doors from the room in which Mrs. Hallett and Ray were waiting for her. It was through the folding doors that she presently appeared.

Mrs. Hallett, who was facing them, caught a glimpse of a man's seated figure before Joan drew them shut behind her. "They were so idiotic about the wreaths, Mumsie, that I collared the manager and brought him back on a lead. He's in there, waiting for you to see him yourself. . . . Staying to lunch, Ray? Do!"

CHAPTER XXI.

An Odd Coincidence. Mrs. Hallett added her invitation to Joan's that Ray stay for luncheon, hoping that he would not detect its sincerity. Ray hesitated, then declined.

"But I'd like to renew our discussion on some future occasion, Mrs. Hallett, if I may. It would be foolish of me to pretend that declining a fortune is a thing to do lightly, in a casual sort of way. I do, lightly, in a casual sort of way."

Mrs. Hallett was touched by his embarrassment and his honesty. "My dear Ray, I'm not unwilling to discuss it with you, but, truly, I've been as frank with you as I can—for the present, anyway. I needn't add how miserable I shall be if you persist in doubting my good faith."

"Perhaps you may be able to be absolutely frank with me next time you see him, Mumsie, put in Joan quickly. There was neither malice nor resentment in her tone, but Mrs. Hallett knew that she had glanced meaningfully in the direction of the folding doors."

"Perhaps I shall," assented Mrs. Hallett uncomfortably. She turned with relief to the servant who entered at that moment.

"Mr. Cornboise, madam, to see Miss Hallett. He is in the study—the door of Miss Hallett's room seemed to be locked on the inside."

"The florist must have barricaded himself in, then!" Joan's laugh sounded quite natural. "Mumsie, I want you to see my partner-to-be. May he come in?"

"Of course! You have met Mr. Cornboise, haven't you, Ray?"

"Yes. The monosyllabic held distinct disapproval, but Ray's face was expressionless when presently the visitor was ushered in."

Mrs. Hallett looked with some interest at the man with whom her daughter proposed to associate her self in business; his greeting of him was carefully non-committal, and his equally non-committal was his response. He was far younger than Joan had made him out to be, was her first thought; he was also—so far as her second—not altogether unknown to her, though where and when she had met him she could not say.

It struck her as an odd coincidence that, as Mr. Cornboise turned to Ray, the latter should put the thought into words.

"I can't help feeling we've met somewhere before, Mr. Cornboise," remarked Ray. "I don't think I have, but I have the impression that it was in connection with a 'show'."

"I shouldn't have forgotten it if it had been so," returned Cornboise pleasantly. His teeth gleamed as he smiled. "I may have a double—probably more than one; I don't flatter myself that my features are in any way distinctive."

"It's your back view that is so odd," remarked Ray. Then, pursued by Joan's mirth, he took his leave.

"I am very interested in this commercial venture which you and my daughter are contemplating," murmured Mrs. Hallett to Cornboise. She was intensely impatient for him to be gone, yet felt a stronger interest in him than she could account for. Had it not been for the urgent problem of Selkirk in the next room she would have liked to talk to him to discover the source of his magnetism.

and probe the certainty that he had had met before. Something about him was familiar—not his voice, rather loud and confident, nor his upright carriage, nor, really, his face; but something. . . . He had turned twice evidence—very painful."

"Appointment?"

"You promised to meet me at the studio at 12 and then let me give you lunch at the Baroque."

"I'm fearfully sorry! But—are you quite sure. I often cut appointments but I never forget them." Joan was laughing at herself, but her surprise was, Mrs. Hallett felt, quite genuine.

"I can't remember the first thing about this arrangement."

"It's not of the least consequence," Cornboise assured her. "I only called because I feared you might be unwell."

Joan repeated her apologies and looked with meaning at her mother. Mrs. Hallett rose to the occasion.

"Perhaps you will lunch with us, Mr. Cornboise—just to show your forgiveness?"

"I think I will have a tray quietly in here. Perhaps you'd lend me your sitting room to rest in later on, Joan?"

"Certainly, Mumsie. I'd better go and clean myself up. Shall I speak to Harcourt?"

"We have just returned from the inquest on Mr. March," Mrs. Hallett added to Mr. Cornboise, who was expressing his sympathy for her fatigue. "We had to give evidence—very painful."

She paused, expecting fresh sympathy, however perfunctory. But the silence made her look up, look closely at Cornboise. She stiffened.

The man was laughing soundlessly, eyes and teeth gleaming, overmanicured fingers spread upon his knees.

He was staring at her offensively. Mrs. Hallett's hands began to tremble and she clasped one with the other and hid them in her lap.

Some new shock was coming. Some new strain was being upon in her. If only he would speak! She felt no amazement nor curiosity, only intolerable suspense.

Mrs. Hallett strove vainly to assure herself that she was not afraid. "We are quite alone," she said involuntarily, as Cornboise looked towards the door out of which Joan had passed. Her thoughts were even round the knowledge that she had seen him before and the further knowledge that it was because he was not unknown to her, that she was possibly still in touch with March, he knew what she said.

"What—what is it? Why do you laugh?"

"Because I, too, was unobtrusively present at the inquest, Mrs. Hallett; and your evidence—amused me. And your nerve was admirable."

Desperately Mrs. Hallett considered this explanation. It made no sense at all, unless one assumed that he knew the whole truth. If he were a close friend, an associate of March's, possibly still in touch with March, he might well know the whole truth. She risked a question.

"If you are in a position to be amused at my evidence, are you in a position to enlighten me. When was the body—stabbed in the throat?"

Her voice was steadier than she had dared to hope and a flicker of admiration was in Cornboise's eyes; but he answered her evasion with another. "Just before it went into the river."

Mrs. Hallett drew a long breath. Her mind fastened on second question—one that would not admit of evasion.

"Why did not Mr. March remove my pin?" she asked.

Cornboise looked reflectively at her. "You're a clever woman, Mrs. Hallett," he said. "Clever as you have seen your danger so quickly and so clearly and clever to have got behind the whole idea. . . . Oh, yes, you've got behind it all right!"—she would have spoken. "Your question about March shows that. For all—March—knew, you might have been just able to see where you and your husband stand and not an inch further. Your quick wits have saved up a lot of talk."

"Is that you and me?"

CHAPTER XXII.

Fear. Mrs. Hallett gripped the arms of her chair. She had, as it were, toppled into this new turn of events; she had had no sense of shock or of adjustment. Her overwrought mind had accepted it as natural enough because so much that was normally incredible had become natural. Now, she experienced a rush of belated amazement and anger and fear.

"You have forced the pace," she said coldly; "but was because I am tired—I was off my guard. But don't imagine that I am always easily—what is it called?—bluffed. There will be talk between you and me until you have explained both your own position and a good deal in mine that is not yet clear to me."

Cornboise's long look at her still held. "Do you know," he said slowly, "you've got me guessing? I can't for the life of me be sure."

Joan's voice outside broke across his words. He raised his voice slightly. "If you are not too tired I should be delighted to explain all you wish to know," he said, and added as Joan rejoined them: "I know Mrs. Hallett looks upon me as a conventional old fogey, but I am most anxious that you and Colonel Hallett should satisfy yourselves as to my bona fides. Could you spare me half an hour after lunch?"

"I should be very interested," assented Mrs. Hallett faintly.

"It's most unfortunate," went on Cornboise, "that I have not brought the portfolio of designs we have in mind for our opening parade—they would show you at a glance the type of gown we are aiming at; nothing is to be extra, but everything to be unique. I'm afraid it would take too long to fetch them from the studio, but—"

New York, August 31.—Prices declined approximately half a cent in the cotton market today on reports of increased hedge selling and an easing of the market. The market was active, with the price of last month's cotton closing at 22.15, with a general market closing at net decline of 40 to 47 points.

The opening was easy at a decline of 14 to 22 points in response to a relatively easy Liverpool cable, an apparent accumulation of southern selling orders over Sunday, and a private crop report estimating the condition at 61.3 and indicating a yield of 14,955,000 bales. This report stated that the next government report was likely to be below these figures. Two other private reports were issued, one of them placing the condition at 60.1, with an indicated yield of 13,353,000 bales, while the other estimated the condition at 60 and the indicated yield at 13,900,000 bales. The larger figures, however, appeared to attract relatively more attention and probably stimulated selling on the reports of increased hedging and a generally favorable view of the weather map.

Trade buying and covering developed on a scale down, the latter in considerable volume, but it was supplied by continued southern or local selling, and prices reached the lowest levels of the day during the afternoon. October declined to 21.85, while January sold at 21.57, representing net losses of 49 to 63 points, out the close was seven or 10 points above the lowest on covering.

Large Wall Street operators were credited with having covered a good many short contracts during the day. Private cables attributed the decline in Liverpool to increased hedge selling and liquidation, with spinners indifferent and the decline in raw cotton distribution. Manchester business reports today were 79,129 bales. United States port stocks 334,648. Exports were 60,695, making 211,279 so far this season.

NET LOSS OF 40 TO 50 POINTS AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, August 31.—The cotton market was active today, although it was reactionary after the session, with only trifling and short-lived rallies from time to time. After opening 24 to 25 points down, prices gradually declined until at the low point reached just a little before the end, October trade, 50 points below the closing level of Saturday, and not only at the lowest of the present movement but also at the lowest price in the life of the contract. The close was a little above the low, due to some covering, showing net losses for the day of 40 to 50 points.

At the start, owing to much lower Liverpool cables than due, first traders showed losses of 24 to 25 points, but the market rallied slightly right after the call to 21.50 for October and 21.79 for December and 21.82 for January, or six to nine points above the initial lows. These prices proved to be the highs of the day. The market soon turned easier, declining first on the continued favorable weather later on a large crop estimate, 14,900,000 bales, by a private New York authority.

The decline became more rapid when a heavy volume of hedge selling came on the market, and the downward course of values was helped during the day by the heavy port receipts of 77,894 bales for the day. Prices reached the lowest levels of the day near the end, with October at 21.85, December at 21.57, and January at 21.47, or 53 to 57 points below the previous close. The close was a little above the lows, owing to moderate covering.

Three private crop reports were issued during the day, the first showing condition of 61.2 and an indicated yield of 14,900,000 bales, the second, a yield of 13,353,000 bales, and the third, a yield of 13,900,000 bales, and the third condition of 60.1 and yield of 13,081,000 bales.

Exports for the day were large, totaling 60,695 bales, of which Houston contributed 32,638 and Savannah 25,500 bales.

GENERAL MOTORS TO ENTER BRITAIN

New York, August 31.—(AP)—British automobile manufacturers, have accepted, subject to the approval of their stockholders, a proposition for the sale of a controlling interest in that corporation to the General Motors corporation, Albert P. Sloan, Jr., president of the latter, announced today.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors corporation, today made the following statement regarding news items cable from London with reference to acquisition of Austin Motors, Ltd., by General Motors.

"The desirability of General Motors entering the motor manufacturing field in England has been under consideration some time. In order to intelligently deal with the subject, a group of General Motors officials went abroad in July to study this and other phases of the corporation's export activities. As a result, a proposition has been made and accepted by directors of Austin Motors, and will be submitted to their stockholders in due course. If favorable action is taken the result will be that General Motors will obtain control of Austin and will be responsible for operations in the future."

The Austin company has extensive manufacturing plant near Birmingham. They are manufacturers of Austin cars, which are well regarded wherever known. Assembly operations of General Motors now located at Hilden, near London, will be consolidated with the Austin plant at Birmingham. Through co-ordination and with addition of Austin cars to the General Motors line, the position of General Motors in Great Britain and in other overseas countries, particularly those under British sphere of influence, will be materially strengthened."

High Lights in Cotton Market

Editor, Commerce and Finance, New York

August 31.—Last week was the "business week" in the cotton market. There are coming to be two such weeks out of every four, each covering the period that elapses after the market has recovered from one government report and before it comes under the blight of the next one. There were, however, no sensational fluctuations. The government report was as high as most traders thought it would be. It was nowhere regarded as a contradiction of the somewhat higher figure to which the trade believed, and with the reasonably satisfactory progress that the crop has made during the past ten days the ideas of those who had expected a decline in the cotton market have been confirmed rather than disturbed. As a consequence the report was ignored and by all indications the market stood by its own idea of the crop during the remainder of the year and resist being hurried one way or the other by the sales that blow out of Washington.

So far as the immediate course of prices is concerned, however, the ultimate outcome of the crop is running second in importance to the earliness of the movement. The earliness was an easily discernible increase in the amount of southern selling which the market was called upon to absorb and under its influence as well as the short selling upon which some of the more venturesome have embarked the market has been drooping.

But the decline has not been severe. There has been enough mill buying to offset the heavy selling, and the movement into sight is heavy, the movement out of sight also shows the prevailing increase which has been encouraged by the assurance of a sufficient supply at a reasonable price. The world's takings shown by the New York cotton exchange figures at 1,600,000 bales in fact exceeded last year by 135,000 bales, though the latter was 250,000 greater than the year before. The willingness of spinners to fill their requirements is thus shown as increasing resistance at successive levels if the market drops further and it may well be that the short position will become overvalued and that some may find it advisable to step out for fear of being pushed off. If they are counting on an old-time "autumnal dip" they may find that there are no longer old times and that the abundant prosperity and credit facilities of the south will limit the pressure of the early crop movement more effectively than was formerly possible. And if they are counting on a crop nearer to 15,000,000 bales than to 14,500,000 the accidents of the market are more likely to be against them than to favor them.

Of course, these crop ideas may be changed. If they are, the market will be increasingly apparent as the autumn wears on the markets will likely continue to sag until the certainty of such a yield is everywhere recognized by which time we may assume it will have been discounted. But even in such a readjustment of prices there would be vacillations of sentiment and the market would be the preponderant opinion has been undoubtedly bearish for some time now it would be strange indeed if one of these reversals should not be reasonably near ahead.

In its concentration on the supply the cotton market is prone at this time of year to overlook the consumption, which is ever dealt with less conspicuously. No so the spinners, however, they have to meet the demand of a retail market which is steadily sucking in goods and they have but small stocks of cotton out of which to make them. They began last season at a comparatively low rate of consumption, but they have been steadily spinning more cotton than they did last. When the market reaches an even keel, and while it seems likely they may toward it, it thus shows a tendency to increase for all the cotton that is pressed for sale. A drop of every twenty points will add additional spinners from which the market will be supplied. The British manufacturers will buy cotton more willingly under a shilling than over it. Thus the market decline it seems likely to be reflected in increasing force which only important gains in crop prospects will overcome.

Standard Oil Co. Explains Slash

New York, August 31.—(AP)—Asserting there is no industry in this country today so keenly competitive as that of the petroleum, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, in the current issue of its monthly publication, "The Lamp," explains the recent reductions in gasoline prices.

In 1923 and 1924, when the three new fields in the Los Angeles basin were flooding California with crude, it pointed out that approximately 95,000,000 barrels were shipped through the Panama canal to the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic ports. During the same period, the stocks of gasoline and tops in California increased from 3,000,000 barrels to 10,000,000 barrels, but it was not until recently that receipts of this commodity at Atlantic ports were in sufficient quantities directly to influence the eastern market.

"The carrying charge on gasoline is heavy if evaporation and loss of interest on money invested in stocks and bonds are taken into consideration. The carrying charge on gasoline is heavy if evaporation and loss of interest on money invested in stocks and bonds are taken into consideration. The carrying charge on gasoline is heavy if evaporation and loss of interest on money invested in stocks and bonds are taken into consideration."

"Since January, more than 7,000,000 barrels of California gasoline have been shipped into the eastern market, and recent receipts are close to 2,000,000 barrels a month. "Still the large quantity of this gasoline lying down at the Atlantic seaboard during 1925 might not of itself have seriously disturbed the eastern gasoline prices if eastern refiners and especially those in the mid-continent have not equipped themselves for a volume of business based on published statistics indicating a gain of 25.5 per cent in domestic gasoline consumption for the first quarter of this year over the same period of 1924. However, that was done and the increase in consumption had not been maintained at this rate.

"It now appears that refiners have been running in the neighborhood of 200,000 barrels a day too much crude. East of the Rockies, they are taking it out of field and pipeline storage and either piling it up at their plants in the form of finished products or balancing purchases with sales and not reducing stocks. A decline in the selling price for gasoline naturally resulted, is simply another example of the operation of the supply and demand."

Weakness and Strength Alternate Upon Market

New York, August 31.—Reactionary tendencies predominated in today's stock market, although independent strong spots were scattered throughout the list. Trading in the oils was listless, with price changes fractional and unimportant.

Heavy profit-taking was again apparent in the public utilities, Commonwealth, American Light and Traction and Southeastern Power and Light yielding 1 to 2-1/2 points. Activity and strength of the Southern Dairies issues, on the announcement that over 78 per cent of the Chapin-Sacks common stockholders had exchanged their shares for Southern Dairies class A stock under the merger plan, featured the industrial list. Southern Dairies B crossed 25 to a record high and the A closed fractionally higher at 55.

Heaviness cropped out in other recent strong spots in the industrial group, Fox Films A, Pathe Exchange, Goodyear Tire and Rubber, Pyro-Gin, A falling back 1 to 2-1/2 points. Trumbull and Midland Steels turned weak as a result of opposition to the former company's stockholders' tentative terms for the Trumbull-Otis-Midland Steel Products merger.

Directors of Burns Brothers Coal dealers will meet early next month to take action on the acquisition of the Wyoming Valley Coal Company, Steamship Fuel Corporation and two other companies as part of a plan to reorganize the company and establish a chain of coal distributing stations. Directors of the Chrysler corporation, who met today to discuss the regular preferred dividend, were presented with an optimistic report of the company's affairs. An official statement disclosed that August shipments had been fully 50 per cent greater than the same month of last year. New York, August 31.—(AP)—Alternate periods of weakness and strength again characterized today's stock market, with the net losses exceeding net gains at the close. Despite the growth of bearish sentiment, reflected in commission house advices and the activities of professional traders, bullish operations were successfully conducted in a wide variety of stocks, nearly a score of which were lifted to new peak prices for the year.

Although business news continued generally favorable, some disappointment was expressed at the apparent hesitancy of buyers in placing future orders in several lines of business. The suspension of anthracite mining at midnight tonight also had a restraining influence on bullish enthusiasm.

The day's news was largely constructive in character. It included the resumption of dividends on the common stock of the International Nickel company, reports of an increased inquiry for railroad equipment and a moderate decline in California crude oil output last week. Failure of the directors of the Chrysler corporation to take dividend action on the year by Danish and Norwegian kroner at 24.95 and 20.82 cent, respectively, featured the irregular foreign exchange markets. Other European rates moved within narrow limits ahead of July, and that orders on hand represent 60 days' business at the current rate of production.

Call money renewed at 4-1/4 per cent, and then advanced to 4-1/2, closing at the top. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged. Establishment of new high records for the year by Danish and Norwegian kroner at 24.95 and 20.82 cent, respectively, featured the irregular foreign exchange markets. Other European rates moved within narrow limits ahead of July, and that orders on hand represent 60 days' business at the current rate of production.

The Day in Finance

BY R. L. BARNUM.

New York, August 31.—Chrysler shares, which have recently had a sudden advance from 115 to above 140, had a sharp break today after the directors of the company met and declared only the regular preferred dividend. The stock has recently been advancing on rumors of an increase in the common dividend or a split-up of the common stock, or both. Aside from Chrysler, the stock market was featureless, merely reacting to what happened in the money market as a result of the September 1 requirements and what happens as a result of the strike of 100,000 anthracite miners which begins tomorrow.

Wall Street realizes that there is now a large supply of anthracite on hand and, moreover, that the anthracite strike is mostly a problem for the household to face. What the financial district here is afraid of is that the anthracite labor union leaders, who have not been able to gain any ground in their negotiations leading up to the strike, will make an effort to join hands with the leaders of labor in the soft coal fields. The country's supply of soft coal, on which industry in general, including the railroads, is dependent for fuel, is not large. The street realizes that a joint, hard and soft coal strike would be serious.

Turn To Use of Oil. Heretofore the very strong anthracite miners' union has steered clear of the troubles of the soft coal workers. Recently, however, many householders, office buildings, apartments and industrial users of small sizes of anthracite coal have turned to oil, thus weakening the anthracite union. Hence it is possible that the anthracite union may be forced to look for help from the soft coal union. Oil men have expressed the belief today that while a joint hard and soft coal strike would be serious, good because many users of both hard and soft coal would jump to permanent use of oil, thus further weakening the struggle hold that the anthracite miners and operators have in the eastern states, and at the same time

Cuts Due to Overproduction. In the current issue of The Lamp, the official trade organ of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, it is frankly admitted that the price war now going on in gasoline, with prices cut in crude oil and other grades of refined oil, is due to overproduction of crude oil. There was a time not a great many years ago that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey maintained a combination in the oil industry that was even stronger than the combination now existing in anthracite coal, but that day has passed. Today the various Standard Oil companies have too much competition in every branch of the oil trade to control prices.

The anthracite miners and operators, which for years have been gouging the public, might learn something to their advantage by studying the history of the rise and fall of the Standard Oil trust. But it is doubtful whether they will. They are likely to go on gouging the public until at least a large part of the present users of anthracite find a substitute.

SEEING IS BELIEVING;

Feeling is the naked truth. We ask you to see and feel these hollow tile concrete Spanish Villas built by J. L. Turner on University Drive between Morningside and Druid Hills. There is no misrepresentation. We can tell you about them like you can see them, and after you see them you can tell others. There is more truth here than can be carried away in words.

Price Is the Least of It!

What you pay for TRIPOD PAINTS, or for any other really first-rate paint, is a mighty small item measured against what it costs you in the long run.

The poorest excuse for paint ever sold costs as much to put on as does sturdy, long-lasting TRIPOD. Probably it won't begin to cover as much service, two coats, well brushed in; but even if it did...

What it looks like, and is, two years from now is what counts. The price per gallon figures 'way, 'way down compared to that, when you buy TRIPOD PAINT. It would figure 'way, 'way up, if you went astray with make-believe paint.

Telling you this in print weighs little against showing you. Stop in and be shown.

MONTEVALLO LEAVES NO CLINKERS

When coal burns to ash, and burns freely, without leaving any other residue, you are getting every penny's worth your coal-money can buy.

Montevallo, so far as we know, is the only coal mined in the south that is uniformly free of non-burning residue.

It costs more surely, but worth every cent you are asked to pay. Try it once.

American Doctor Held For Ransom By China Bandits

Harbin, Manchuria, August 31.—(Special.)—Dr. Harvey J. Howard, American eye specialist of the Peking Union Medical college, who was captured by Manchurian bandits on July 20, now is being held for ransom by a group of his captors, whose members probably have been reduced to less than ten. They are unmounted and in hiding near the Sungari river, closely followed by mounted militia.

This information reached Harbin today in a message from Roger Greene, general manager in China for the Rockefeller foundation, who is at Fuchin, Manchuria, working to obtain Dr. Howard's release.

According to Chinese, who have arrived at Fuchin from the bandits, the brigands who captured Dr. Howard split into two bands when they crossed the Sungari river, fleeing from Chinese forces. The Chinese troops attacked one of these bands, consisting of 19 men, on August 25 and killed the chief. The Chinese who brought this report to Fuchin witnessed the fight. Mr. Greene reports.

Chinese and civil and military searching parties are combing both banks of the river. Better cooperation in the search for the doctor has been achieved by the authorities of the Manchurian provinces of Kirin and Huhungkiang. It is indicated in daily reports received by Mr. Greene at Fuchin.

251 PETITIONS ARE CONSIDERED BY PAROLE BOARD

Only 251 petitions for parole have been reviewed by the parole board of the Atlanta federal prison, according to reports made tonight, the fourth day of the August meeting of the board. This is less than one third of the number of petitions facing the board, the first containing 842 names.

This is the last meeting of the year and an effort to consider applications of all those eligible to parole is being made.

The population of the prison Monday night was the lowest it has been in many months—since Warden John W. Snook began his duties. The total held within the walls was 1,925, the first time the number has been below the 3,000-mark in a long period.
